DISCLAIMER: HOW TO USE THIS HANDBOOK

This handbook is meant as a complete set of alternate rules for Dungeon and Dragons 5e. Even though this is an alternate ruleset for a pre-existing game it might be better to think of it as a separate game system that uses 5e as a base and a combination of 5e and 3.5 as a source of inspiration. Many elements found in this handbook are taken wholesale from the 5e handbook for convenience of reference. For all things directly addressed in this handbook, the rules and mechanics presented, such as the abilities of classes, should take precedence over any pre-existing rules and are not meant to be augmented by pre-existing rules. For anything not directly addressed in this handbook, one should default to the 5e player's handbook. And for things left ambiguous, the DM may rule however they choose.

RACES

The races in the Realm of the Divine Beasts have a unique history. It is said that their origins lie in the loneliness of the Deities. Before intelligent species, when the world was still young, the Divine Beasts grew lonely and bored with the unintelligent animals that populated the world. So they worked together to try to create a species that could think and create like them. Their first attempts resulted in creatures with unstable souls, creating the monsters that now populate the world, some of which are imprisoned in the world's seam because their power and unstable souls pose a threat to all life. Eventually they succeeded in making a stable and intelligent species, humans.

From there they based different races off of them, making small changes as they went. First they made races with greater physical strength and endurance resulting in Orcs and Elves respectively. From there they made smaller versions of each from Orcs they made Dwarfs and from Elves they made Halflings. Half-breeds between races are always infertile and can only occur between races that are similar enough. Shown on this page is a chart showing what half-breeds exist and between which races.

Humans

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
+0	+0	+0	+0	2 points to spend on anything

Humans, being the first race and the template for the rest of the races, are the most diverse and flexible.

Culture As a race, humans see the breadth of the world as a resource to be obtained and used, traveling to the far corners of both land and sea in search of whatever may lie over the next horizon.

Physical description You know what a human looks like. They reach adulthood around age 20 and can live to be up to 100.

Tieflings

Tieflings are the only subrace in the Realm of the Divine Beasts. Tieflings are all descendants of the Harbinger. The Harbinger is a being created by the Raven, Deity of the Underworld, to make the experience of living in the underworld more familiar and comfortable to the newly dead. The Raven also made the Harbinger human to help her be more familiar to her subjects and blend in better in the living world. But being infused with such a dense amount of divine power caused the harbinger to mutate into what could be called a "Super-Tiefling" which is what warlocks of hers turn into while in their patron form.

So when the Harbinger goes to the living world she will use magic to disguise herself as a normal human. The genetics work by punnett square rules with the Tiefling gene being dominant. Due to the Harbinger's constant incarnation as a human, tieflings are a subspecies specific to humans. As such, they can have half-orc and half-elf children, but due to the genetic interaction, such children never exhibit tiefling traits.

Culture Tieflings are an odd case as they have not yet formed a large settlement of their own yet such as a city. Though this is not to say that they do not have any lone settlements at all. There are multiple small Tiefling villages dotted across the land but they are few and far between. The more likely place to see a Tiefling is living in a city or town largely inhabited by another race in which case Tieflings usually try to assimilate themselves to the culture of the society they inhabit.

Physical description Basically a Human with a different Skin tone: (R:30-255 G:0 B:0-140), horns of various shapes and sizes, and a tail ranging from a short cow like tail to a long thin imp like tail to even a thick priscilla-esc tail. Upon a closer look, one will notice that tieflings also possess longer canines, sometimes to the point of them being mistaken for fangs and red tinted eyes(imagine the same color range of human eyes but they're all noticeably tinted red). They live slightly longer than humans reaching adulthood around the age of 25 and can live to be up to 125.

Elves

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
-1	+0	+1	+2

Culture As a race, elves see the magical sites of the world as the true hearts of worth, and devote themselves to seeking out and understanding such places, often reveering them as sacred or holy.

Physical description Basically human but slightly shorter, pointy long ears, and on average having less physical strength and more endurance. They also mature at one fifth the rate of humans. They reach adulthood around age 100 and can live to be up to 500.

Orcs

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
+2	-1	+2	-1

Culture As a race, the orcs are devoted to the memories of the past, caring deeply for ancestral values and history, and tend to stay in the places that were significant to their people in the past.

Physical description The average Orc's build is larger than a human. Generally imagine a human with all of their dimensions increased by approximately 20%. Making them stronger and bulker. They have green skin ranging from a dark forest green to a light lime green. They also have an underbite and a pair of small fangs on the bottom of the mouth that can sometimes rest outside their mouth. They also have more body hair than a typical human. They reach adulthood around age 16 and can live to be up to 80.

Dwarfs

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
+0	+0	+2	+1	Base Speed: -10ft

Culture As a race, the dwarves value the wealth of the earth, both physically and spiritually, and will largely spend their time delving into the depths of the world, only rarely emerging to interact with other races. Many dwarven societies will cast their dead into underground rivers of magma, believing that the souls of the fallen are then forged by the earth and form into further riches of the world.

Physical description Imagine a human, but instead of being scaled down is squashed down. They are shorter than the average human but have the same level of strength making them inherently a bit bulkier. They also mature at one half the rate of humans. They reach adulthood around age 40 and can live to be up to 200.

Halflings

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
-1	+2	-2	+2	Base Speed:+ 10ft

Culture As a race, halflings are deeply invested in the present, dually their family and the wonders they can experience in the world. Historically nomadic, as families grew into communities into settlements, halflings have transitioned from a life of familial wanderlust to individual wanderlust, never forgetting the value of the community they leave behind but never wasting a moment of their opportunity to see the wonders around them.

Physical description While Dwarves are squashed and not scaled down in size, Halflings are the opposite. Their general dimensions are half of that of a human. They do however have the same muscle density as a human allowing them to have faster speed and more agility. They reach adulthood around age 25 and can live to be up to 125.

HALF-BREEDS

Half-Elves

Human + Elf

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
+0	+0	+0	+1	1 point to spend on anything but strength

Cultural experience Due to their inability to breed it's not quite accurate to say Half-elves have their own distinct cultural norms. But rather there are certain universal experiences that Half-elves have in common. They are often caught in this weird zone where, while in human society they are often seen as overly passive and inactive, while in Elven society it's the opposite, being seen as impulsive or overly eager to get things done, over with, or completed.

Half-Orcs

Human + Orc

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
+1	-1	+1	+0	1 point to spend except on dexterity and wisdom

Cultural experience Hybrid = no norms, just interactions. Half-orcs are caught in a dire culture clash between the exploration-driven humans on one side of the family tree and the rooted orcs on the other side. This distinction between the desire to obtain and the respect for the past tends to force the half-orc to at some point choose a side between their heritages. On average, half-orcs find their human family a better fit, because their infertility leaves them with little to add to the history and tradition of their orcish family.

Gnomes

Dwarf + Halfling

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
+0	+1	+0	+1

Cultural experience The normal drill of being a hybrid. Gnomes look out of place whether among dwarves or halflings; on one side they're frail, and on the other they're slow. But despite that, gnomes tend to blend some of the best traits of both sides, taking the halfling's sense of wonder and the dwarven pride in craftsmanship and combining it into a drive to innovate, be creative yet precise. Avid tinkerers of one kind or another, gnomes are rarely shunned by either of their parent species.

Elflings

Elf + Halfling

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
-1	+1	-1	+2	Base Speed:+ 10ft

Cultural experience Hybrid! Moving on. Like half-elves, elflings struggle to fit in with the shorter-lived halflings and the longer-lived elves, but, keyly, they tend to take quite avidly to the elven appreciation for the spiritual world as well as inheriting a strong sense of halfling wonder. Many elflings, then, dismiss the idea of trying to fit into one or both cultures, instead living in constant search of the next magical wonder.

Tlarvs

Orc + Dwarf

Racial Bonuses

STR	DEX	CON	WIS	Other
+1	-1	+2	+0

Cultural experience 'Nuff said to say hybrid. Between their dwarven and orcish ancestry, Tlarvs have an intense respect for their heritage and sense of responsibility. Beyond that, however, the two cultures they stem from have little in common, making it a struggle for each Tlarv to balance or choose which of their ancestral sites and values to honor.

ABILITY SCORES

Before we get into the base classes, I think it would be best to talk about what makes them who they are. Ability scores determine how good or bad a character is at various tasks and skills. Basically, there are three physical stats (strength, dexterity, and constitution) and three magic stats (intelligence, wisdom, and charisma). Classes that mainly use the physical stats are physical classes(barbarians, fighters, ect.) and classes that mainly use the magic stats are magic classes(clerics, wizards, ect.)

Strength

Strength(STR) is pretty self explanatory. Your strength determines how physically capable you are in things like lifting heavy objects, grappling, breaking objects, and other such activities.

Dexterity

Dexterity(DEX) is your reaction time, hand-eye coordination, agility, and balance. Very helpful for landing ranged attacks and performing feats of acrobatics.

Constitution

Constitution(CON) is your vitality, natural poise, and endurance. Used for max HP and Poise health for physical characters.

Intelligence

Intelligence(INT) is your book smarts and memory. Determines how good your character is at recalling information, the nimbleness of their mind, and analytical thinking.

Wisdom

Wisdom(WIS) is your street smarts and senses. Determines how good your character is at noticing things in and out of their immediate sight, their intuition, and ability to read people.

Charisma

Charisma(CHA) is your presence and the strength of your soul. Whether or not a character with high charisma is aware of it or not, their enhanced spiritual presence gives them an edge in social interactions when it comes to getting their way.

Saving Throws

There are 3 types of saving throws: Fortitude, Reflex, and Will. Fortitude scales off the higher of STR and CON, and is used for saves that rely on one's physical resilience to endure. Reflex scales off the higher of DEX and INT, and is used for saves that rely on one's ability to react and self correct quickly and on short notice. Will scales off the higher of WIS and CHA and is used for saves that rely on one's force of will to persist.

Endurance, Power, and Recovery

All classes have an Endurance, Power, and Recovery stat. The function of theses depends on whether you are playing a physical class(non-spellcaster) or a magic class and which of the 6 ability scores correlate to each stat varies from class to class.

Poise

Poise is how much a character can take before losing an action on their next turn. The total amount of poise health is affected by the armor a character is wearing and their Endurance stat if they're a physical character. The amount of poise damage a character does is determined by the weapon they're using and their Power stat if they're a physical character. And the amount of Poise they recover on their turn is determined by their Recovery stat.

Starting Stats and Leveling up

When making a character you start at 4 in all stats and then are given 40 points to spend how you see fit, maxing out at 16 for any one stat and when it comes to future stat increases stats max out at 30. Bonuses work the same as D&D.

Bardic Knowledge

At 5th level, finding the best performances often requires knowing a smattering of many things.

Advantage on all checks using your Intelligence modifier.

Jack of All Trades

At 10th level, if you can't do it all, how can you tell it all? With this in mind, you figured out the basics of a variety of skills.

add half your proficiency bonus to all skills you don't have proficiency in. At 20th level, it becomes a full proficiency bonus.

Storyteller

At 15th level, words have power, and stories have even more, especially in the hands of an experienced performer.

When casting an enchantment spell you have 2 free SP to spend that do not contribute to your cap

Every even level: +1 free SP

Never Ending Song

At 20th level, your performances transcend traditional limits of expression, and stick with your audience long after they've ended.

Perks

Studious Devout

At 1st level, in pursuit of a connection with your god, you have studied the research and traditions of many cults.

You have proficiency in Religion and advantage on religion checks relating to your deity.

Blessed Prayer

At 5th level, you call out a prayer to your god, and their favor alters the course of events as you wish for a brief moment.

Once per Long Rest, you can make the next roll have advantage or disadvantage

Every odd level: +1 # of uses

Divine Shepherd

At 10th level, in your travels in service to your god, you have become proficient in working the blessings of your god upon more and more followers... as well as their curses upon heretics.

When casting enchantment spells, you can have +1 target.

Every odd level: +1 target

Skills: Choose 2: History, Investigation, Medicine, Nature, Perception, Sleight of Hand

Starting Equipment

- 2 Simple weapons
- a)1 Shield and Leather armor or b) Chain Armor
- Crafter's tools

Perks

Quick Crafting

At 1st level, expertise in your work has made you able to do the same job far faster and more efficiently than less devoted peers.

You can spend both your actions on your turn repairing one piece of equipment and the time it takes you to craft is reduced by your recovery modifier.

At 10th Level: repairing only costs 1 action

Equipment Modification

At 5th level, after having studied the exact properties of many weapons and armor, you have figured out how to apply the principles that give certain weapons advantages over others to a broader base.

You can use crafting to add or remove properties from weapons and armor. You can only give properties to their corresponding equipment type (Weapon, Shield, or Armor)

If a weapon originally had a property specifying handedness that property can not be removed, only replaced by another handedness property which counts as 2 manipulations.

When adding the Loaded or Ranged property to a melee weapon you the damage is 1d6 and the ranged attack count as using Ranged weapon class while the melee attacks keep the original weapon class

Manipulatable Properties: Finesse, Chinks, Reach, Metal, Noisy

#of manipulations per item: 1

At 10th Level: Loaded(1 + INT mod), Two-Handed, Throwable, Soft, Rigid, +1 max manipulation

At 15th Level: Versatile, Armor Buster, Hook, Impossibly Heavy, +1 max manipulation

At 20th Level: Stone, One-Handed, Ranged(1 + 2*INT mod), +1 max manipulation

Keen Eye

At 10th level, the same attention to detail that fuels your skill in crafting has made you well versed in identifying the weak points of foes.

Spend 2 actions and give you and your party gains advantage on attack rolls against an opponent.

At 15th Level: -1 Action cost

Special Properties

At 15th level, as a master of your craft, you have devised ways to enhance weapons and armor with otherwise fruitless principles to great efficacy.

You can add special properties to equipment: Sturdy, Sloped, Spiked

Ideal Creation

At 20th level, by force of habit, simply working with an object of your craft leads you to purifying its imperfect constructions, leaving it a permanent token to your abilities.

After making a successful craft check, attempts to break the item have disadvantage, if the item is a weapon add +2 damage, if it's armor or shield add +1 AC (This effect is permanent but does not stack with itself).

Druid

Rather than being a hippie cleric, druids are suffused with the magical power that resides in certain natural areas.

Obtaining Spell: The amount of spells from their spell list a Druid has access to is equal to 5 + their Wisdom Modifier. Once a spell is learned, it can not be unlearned.

Perks

Homefield Advantage

At 1st level, the place that has allowed you to gain your powers fuels you with incredible potency.

While at your magical site your spell die is one size larger.

Woodland Stride

At 5th level, you are attuned to the world from which you draw your power, and can pass easily through environments that might be hostile to others less suited for the wilderness.

You are not slowed by naturally rough terrain and when in a natural environment of the same kind as your magical site you don't leave traces of your movement unless desired.

Harmonious Body

At 10th level, the power that has grafted onto your soul suffuses your body, granting you great resilience to the sicknesses and suffering of the world.

Damage from Poison and Disease effects are halved.

At 15th Level: your saving throws against Poison and Disease effects have advantage.

At 20th Level: you are immune to all Poison and Disease effects.

Timeless Body

At 15th level, like the magic of your sacred site, your body has become ageless, sustained nigh indefinitely by the power grafted onto your soul.

Your body ages at one tenth the rate it once did and you no longer incur penalties from aging.

One With Nature

At 20th level, at the peak of your connection to the world, even that which does not owe its life to your sacred site aligns itself with you and your power.

While in a natural environment of the same kind as your magical site, nothing can have advantage against you and you can't have disadvantage.

Fighter

Self-explanatory.

Starting Equipment

- Chain Armor
- 2 weapons you have proficiency with
- a) 1 weapon you have proficiency with or b) 1 shield

Perks

Fighting Style

At 1st level, the long days, nights, weeks, even years of training you have put into your craft as a warrior has honed your abilities with a certain method of combat to a fine machine.

Pick a fighting style and gain its benefits:

- Archery: +2 to ranged attack rolls
- Defense: +1 AC while wearing armor
- Dueling: +2 damage when using a weapon in one hand and nothing else
- Great Weapon Fighting: when using a weapon in two hands you can reroll one of the damage die once
- Protection: when someone is attacking something with 5ft of you and you are wielding a shield you can give the attacker disadvantage
- Two Weapon Fighting: allows you to dual wield without penalty

Every 5th level:

- Archery: +1 bonus
- Defense: +1 AC
- Dueling: +1 Damage
- Great Weapon Fighting: +1 reroll
- Protection: -1 to opponent's Attack roll

Every 10th Level: Two Weapon Fighting: +1 Attack Action

Second Wind

At 5th level, great endurance has come of your hard won fights, but more importantly you have a raw determination that allows you to push your wounded body past its limits.

Once per Short rest, you can roll your hit die to regain that amount of HP + CON Mod.

Counter Style

At 10th level, in your time on the battlefield, you have come to find that a certain way of fighting stands out from the others as flawed and weak, and you have no qualms taking advantage of those openings.

Pick a counter fighting style and gain its benefits:

- Archery: -2 to ranged attack rolls against you
- Defense: +1 on attack rolls against armor
- Dueling: -2 damage from someone using a weapon in one hand and nothing else
- Great Weapon Fighting: when getting hit by a weapon in two hands you can reroll one of the damage die once
- Protection: when attacking something within 5ft of an opponent wielding a shield you can give yourself advantage
- Two Weapon Fighting: -1 to attack and damage rolls against you with dual wielding

Every 5th level:

- Archery: another -1 to ranged attack rolls
- Defense: another +1 to attack rolls against armor
- Dueling: -1 Damage
- Great Weapon Fighting: +1 reroll
- Protection: +1 to your attack roll
- Two Weapon Fighting: another -1 to attack and damage rolls against you with dual wielding

Action Surge

At 15th level, you have learned to channel the energy that comes of a difficult fight into impressive physical displays, moving or fighting in ways normally impossible.

Once per short rest, you can take an extra action

Every odd level: +1 per short rest

Invincible Warrior

At 20th level, every slashing strike, every crushing blow, every piercing attack -- all of it has been hurled against you, and from endless battles you have learned how to make all of them useless against you.

All physical attacks have disadvantage against you.

Monk

Some measure discipline, some measure spiritual calmness, but together a monk obtains great physical prowess and mental fortitude.

Perks

Ascetic Combat

At 1st level, your detached approach to combat has given you the will to hone your body into a deadly weapon in its own right, with speed, strength, and resilience far beyond others.

Unarmed Strikes use 1d4 for damage and 1d2 for poise damage, +1 AC, +3 Max Poise, and +5ft of movement when not wearing armor

Every odd level: +1 AC, +1 Poise, and +5ft

Every 5th level: +1d4, +1 poise damage

Flurry of Blows

At 5th level, every strike flows a little better from the last and then even better into the next, giving you a speed to your assault unrivaled by other warriors.

When using Unarmed Strikes, you can take an Attack action after expending your other actions.

Every 5th level: +1 Attack action

Ki Strikes

At 10th level, your pure focus has given your body the power of your soul, and every strike carries the weight of your will behind it.

Add your Wisdom bonus to your Unarmed Strike damage and count it as magic damage.

Pure Body

At 15th level, trained to near perfection, your body rejects impurities that might otherwise bring you harm.

Gain immunity to either Disease or Poison.

At 20th level: gain Immunity to the other

Perfect Self

At 20th level, no matter how the wind howls, the mountain does not bow to it, and neither shall you.

All damage against you is reduced by 1d6.

Rogue

Sneaky, tricksy, etcetera etcetera. You know the drill.

Perks

Sneak Attack

At 1st level, anyone can take advantage of an opening, but you've practiced using every opening as an opportunity for a devastating strike.

When attacking someone with advantage, add 1d6 to the damage.

Every 4th Level: +1d6

Evasion

At 5th level, sly and quick on your feet, a foe is as likely to catch you as they are the wind.

When making a Reflex saving throw, you never take damage on a success and take half damage on a fail

Expertise

At 10th level, some practice their abilities until they get it right, but you have taken the time to hone a select few until you never get them wrong.

Choose half the skills you're proficient in to have their proficiency bonus doubled.

At 20th Level: all skills you had full proficiency in previously also get double proficiency bonus

Blind Sense

At 15th level, situational awareness is your forte, and even deprived of sight you can tell exactly what's going on.

You are aware of all creatures within 10ft of you.

Every even level: +5ft of Awareness

Consummate Professional

At 20th level, others reach their point of mastery and stop training to maintain their skill, while you have taken mastery as a challenge to be even better, and succeeded.

Add 2 to your proficiency bonus.

Sorcerer

Someone born with a soul capable of magic without the need of special training or external aid.

Obtaining Spell: Sorcerers start with access to all spells in their subclass's spell list and can learn any spell accessible to other arcane casters(Bards, Sorcerers, Wizards). When taking a Short Rest you can forgo your SP recovery to attempt to learn a spell accessible to other arcane casters. If the sorcerer succeeds a Wisdom check (DC: 16 or the base cost, whichever is higher), they learn that spell.

Perks

Wild Magic

At 1st level, just as your magic began without your control, so too can you now release it from your chains, if at potentially disastrous cost.

Take 4 damage to increase your SP cap for a single casting by 1.

Blood Magic

At 5th level, more than any other magic user, your body and your soul are one, and to fuel your spells with your flesh and blood is second nature.

Take 5 damage to recover 1 SP.

Aura

At 10th level, much as you learned to replenish your soul with your life, you can use your mighty soul as a barrier between those who would harm you and your far more fragile body.

When you take damage you can lose some or all that amount of SP instead of health.

Soul Siphon

At 15th level, though your soul is what powers your body, the bond between the two is far more tenuous in others, and you have learned to exploit that to fuel your forever mighty soul at others' expense.

When you damage an opponent or they fail a DC of yours, you can roll 1d8 and do that amount of extra damage and heal that amount as well.

Every odd level: increase the Siphon die size by 1.

Raw Emotion

At 20th level, you finally release all holds on your magic, and your endless font of emotions takes over as your soul rages indiscriminately in every direction.

Once per encounter, you can enter a state you can not leave until the end of the encounter. While in this state you expend 5 SP per round on your turn and every creature within a radius of (Your Charisma Modifier)*5 + 10ft has to make a saving throw of each kind (DC: 8 + WIS modifier) and depending on what they fail gives a different effect.

- Fortitude: get moved away by (Your Charisma Modifier)*5ft
- Reflex: take (Your Charisma Modifier)*3 magic Damage
- Will: gain the frightened condition until your next turn

Warlock

Granted power by a powerful magical patron. Varied relationships with patron; cast spells with their power invoking their patron, while clerics invoke their deity through prayer to cast spells (pyromancy versus miracles)

Obtaining Spell: Warlocks have access to all spells in their spell list.

Perks

Unwavering Favor

At 1st level, As a chosen servant of your patron, you are rendered resilient to fatal wounds, safeguarded from death by divine favor

When an attack or spell has the potential to reduce your HP to 0, that attack has disadvantage against you or you advantage on that saving throw.

Patron Guidance

At 5th level, Calling upon your connection to the divine, you are capable of claiming some insight into the situations you face, making you better able to handle any situation

Once per Short Rest, you can make your next roll with advantage.

Every 5th level: +1 #of uses.

Patron Presence

At 10th level, you have learned to channel the nature of your patron, whose power and presence through you can make all but the most dense or hubristic mortals falter.

Advantage on all intimidation and persuasion checks.

Palisman

At 15th level, you are gifted an unbreakable staff by your patron, part of this staff is a Palisman which is a miniature version of your patron. Your palisman can either act on its own as a familiar, connect itself to the head of the staff to benefit spellcasting, or merge with you to access your Patron Form.

While connected: Spells have their base cost reduced by your SP cap (Minimum: 0)

Staff: Can be used in melee with the same stats as a quarterstaff

When in patron form: Spend 5 SP every turn to double the bonuses from SP investments, spells have their base cost reduced by your SP cap (Minimum: 0), and get other bonuses based on your patron.

Herald

At 20th level, long steeped in the power of your patron's blessing, you now carry their blessing with you at all times; the living voice of your patron, the strength of your soul is as unfaltering as the favor you have long been shielded by.

All rolls you make using your CHA modifier have advantage.

Wizard

An arcane caster who renders their soul magically potent through practice, study, and rigor.

Obtaining Spells: Wizards start with access to all spells in their subclass's spell list and can learn any spell accessible to other arcane casters (Bards, Sorcerers, Wizards) if they find a scroll containing it and study it for 1 hour.

Perks

Arcane Understanding

At 1st level, you're a scholar of arcane texts, your studies have yielded much expertise in the knowledge relevant to the field of magic.

You have proficiency in Arcana and advantage on arcana checks.

Counterspell

At 5th level, just as you have studied the ways of fashioning spells from raw magical energy, so have you learned to undo that process, returning fledgling spells to inert energy.

If you can identify the caster and the spell being cast, you can use a reaction to make an arcana check that if it beats the spell's DC you can negate the spell.

Spell Analysis

At 10th level, while long studies of both theoretical and applied arcane talents and skills have produced great results, one of your greatest gains has been an intuition for magic, allowing you to learn in the field at pace.

If you can identify the caster and the spell being cast, you can make an arcana check (DC: 18 or the base cost +2, whichever is higher) to learn the spell if you haven't already and are able to.

Spell Master

At 15th level, many spells fill your tomes and mind, but a select handful have long been your favored tools for one reason or another, and this extra level of dedication has made you well able to maximize the efficacy of these spells.

Choose a spell, the SP investment bonuses are doubled and their base cost halved (rounded up).

Every level: +1 spell mastered

Eldritch Knowledge

At 20th level, to compare your breadth and depth of study to other wizards would be nearly laughable, for endless time in both libraries and combat has expanded your mental capacity and intuition to incredible heights.

Add +6 to your Wisdom and Intelligence Score

BACKGROUND

Acolyte

You have spent your life in the service of a temple to a specific god. You act as an intermediary between the realm of the holy and the mortal world, performing sacred rites and offering sacrifices in order to conduct worshipers into the presence of the divine. You are not necessarily a cleric-performing sacred rites is not the same thing as channeling divine power.

Choose a god and work with your DM to detail the nature of your religious service. Were you a lesser functionary in a temple, raised from childhood to assist the priests in the sacred rites? Or were you a high priest who suddenly experienced a call to serve your god in a different way? Perhaps you were the leader of a small cult outside of any established temple structure, or even an occult group that served a fiendish master that you now deny.

Skill Proficiencies: Insight, Religion

Equipment: A holy symbol (a gift to you when you entered the priesthood), a prayer book or prayer wheel, a set of common clothes, and a belt pouch containing 15 gp

Charlatan

You have always had a way with people. You know what makes them tick, you can tease out their hearts' desires after a few minutes of conversation, and with a few leading questions you can read them like they were children's books. It's a useful talent, and one that you're perfectly willing to use for your advantage. You know what people want and you deliver, or rather, you promise to deliver. Common sense should steer people away from things that sound too good to be true, but common sense seems to be in short supply when you're around. The bottle of pink colored liquid will surely cure that unseemly rash, this ointment-nothing more than a bit of fat with a sprinkle of silver dust can restore youth and vigor, and there's a bridge in the city that just happens to be for sale. These marvels sound implausible, but you make them sound like the real deal.

Skill Proficiencies: Deception, Sleight of Hand

Tool Proficiencies: Disguise kit, forgery kit

Equipment: A set of fine clothes, a disguise kit, tools of the con of your choice (ten stoppered bottles filled with colored liquid, a set of weighted dice, a deck of marked cards, or a signet ring of an imaginary duke), and a belt pouch containing 15 gp

Criminal

You are an experienced criminal with a history of breaking the law. You have spent a lot of time among other criminals and still have contacts within the criminal underworld. You're far closer than most people to the world of murder, theft, and violence that pervades the underbelly of civilization, and you have survived up to this point by flouting the rules and regulations of society.

Skill Proficiencies: Deception, Stealth

Tool Proficiencies: One type of gaming set, Thieves' tools

Equipment: A crowbar, a set of dark common clothes including a hood, and a belt pouch containing 15 gp

Entertainer

You thrive in front of an audience. You know how to entrance them, entertain them, and even inspire them. Your poetics can stir the hearts of those who hear you, awakening grief or joy, laughter or anger. Your music raises their spirits or captures their sorrow. Your dance steps captivate, your humor cuts to the quick. Whatever techniques you use, your art is your life.

Skill Proficiencies: Acrobatics, Performance

Tool Proficiencies: Disguise kit, one type of musical instrument

Equipment: A musical instrument (one of your choice), the favor of an admirer (love letter, lock of hair, or trinket), a costume, and a belt pouch containing 15 gp

Folk Hero

You come from a humble social rank, but you are destined for so much more. Already the people of your home village regard you as their champion, and your destiny calls you to stand against the tyrants and monsters that threaten the common folk everywhere.

Skill Proficiencies: Animal Handling, Survival

Tool Proficiencies: One type of artisan's too1s, vehicles (land)

Equipment: A set of artisan's tools (one of your choice), a shovel, an iron pot, a set of common clothes, and a belt pouch containing 10 gp

Guild Artisan

You are a member of an artisan's guild, skilled in a particular field and closely associated with other artisans. You are a well-established part of the mercantile world, freed by talent and wealth from the constraints of a feudal social order. You learned your skills as an apprentice to a master artisan, under the sponsorship of your guild, until you became a master in your own right.

Skill Proficiencies: Insight, Persuasion

Tool Proficiencies: One type of artisan's tools

Equipment: A set of artisan's tools (one of your choice), a letter of introduction from your guild, a set of traveler's clothes, and a belt pouch containing 15 gp

Hermit

You lived in seclusion-either in a sheltered community such as a monastery, or entirely alone-for a formative part of your life. In your time apart from the clamor of society, you found quiet, solitude, and perhaps some of the answers you were looking for.

Skill Proficiencies: Medicine, Religion

Tool Proficiencies: Herbalism kit

Equipment: A scroll case stuffed full of notes from your studies or prayers, a winter blanket, a set of common clothes, an herbalism kit, and 5 gp

Noble

You understand wealth, power, and privilege. You carry a noble title, and your family owns land, collects taxes, and wields significant political influence. You might be a pampered aristocrat unfamiliar with work or discomfort, a former merchant just elevated to the nobility, or a disinherited scoundrel with a disproportionate sense of entitlement. Or you could be an honest, hard-working landowner who cares deeply about the people who live and work on your land, keenly aware of your responsibility to them.

Work with your DM to come up with an appropriate title and determine how much authority that title carries. A noble title doesn't stand on its own-it's connected to an entire family, and whatever title you hold, you will pass it down to your own children. Not only do you need to determine your noble title, but you should also work with the DM to describe your family and their influence on you.

Is your family old and established, or was your title only recently bestowed? How much influence do they wield, and over what area? What kind of reputation does your family have among the other aristocrats of the region? How do the common people regard them?

What's your position in the family? Are you the heir to the head of the family? Have you already inherited the title? How do you feel about that responsibility? Or are you so far down the line of inheritance that no one cares what you do, as long as you don't embarrass the family? How does the head of your family feel about your adventuring career? Are you in your family's good graces, or shunned by the rest of your family?

Does your family have a coat of arms? An insignia you might wear on a signet ring? Particular colors you wear all the time? An animal you regard as a symbol of your line or even a spiritual member of the family?

These details help establish your family and your title as features of the world of the campaign.

Skill Proficiencies: History, Persuasion

Tool Proficiencies: One type of gaming set

Equipment: A set of fine clothes, a signet ring, a scroll of pedigree, and a purse containing 25 gp

Outlander

You grew up in the wilds, far from civilization and the comforts of town and technology. You've witnessed the migration of herds larger than forests, survived weather more extreme than any city-dweller could comprehend, and enjoyed the solitude of being the only thinking creature for miles in any direction. The wilds are in your blood, whether you were a nomad, an explorer, a recluse, a hunter-gatherer, or even a marauder. Even in places where you don't know the specific features of the terrain, you know the ways of the wild.

Skill Proficiencies: Athletics, Survival

Tool Proficiencies: One type of musical instrument

Equipment: A staff, a hunting trap, a trophy from an animal you killed, a set of traveler's clothes, and a belt pouch containing 10 gp

Sage

You spent years learning the lore of the multiverse. You scoured manuscripts, studied scrolls, and listened to the greatest experts on the subjects that interest you. Your efforts have made you a master in your fields of study.

Skill Proficiencies: Arcana, History

Equipment: A bottle of black ink, a quill, a small knife, a letter from a dead colleague posing a question you have not yet been able to answer, a set of common clothes, and a belt pouch containing 10 gp

Sailor

You sailed on a seagoing vessel for years. In that time, you faced down mighty storms, monsters of the deep, and those who wanted to sink your craft to the bottomless depths. Your first love is the distant line of the horizon, but the time has come to try your hand at something new.

Discuss the nature of the ship you previously sailed with your Dungeon Master. Was it a merchant ship, a naval vessel, a ship of discovery, or a pirate ship? How famous (or infamous) is it? Is it widely traveled? Is it still sailing, or is it missing and presumed lost with all hands? What were your duties on board-boatswain, captain, navigator, cook, or some other position? Who was the captain and first mate? Did you leave your ship on good terms with your fellows, or on the run?

Skill Proficiencies: Athletics, Perception

Tool Proficiencies: Navigator's tools, vehicles (water)

Equipment: A belaying pin (club), 50 feet of silk rope, a lucky charm such as a rabbit foot or a small stone with a hole in the center, a set of common clothes, and a belt pouch containing 10 gp

Soldier

War has been your life for as long as you care to remember. You trained as a youth, studied the use of weapons and armor, learned basic survival techniques, including how to stay alive on the battlefield. You might have been part of a standing national army or a mercenary company, or perhaps a member of a local militia who rose to prominence during a recent war.

When you choose this background, work with your DM to determine which military organization you were a part of, how far through its ranks you progressed, and what kind of experiences you had during your military career. Was it a standing army, a town guard, or a village militia? Or it might have been a noble's or merchant's private army, or a mercenary company.

Skill Proficiencies: Athletics, Intimidation

Tool Proficiencies: One type of gaming set, vehicles (land)

Equipment: An insignia of rank, a trophy taken from a fallen enemy (a dagger, broken blade, or piece of a banner), a set of bone dice or deck of cards, a set of common clothes, and a belt pouch containing 10 gp

Urchin

You grew up on the streets alone, orphaned, and poor. You had no one to watch over you or to provide for you, so you learned to provide for yourself. You fought fiercely over food and kept a constant watch out for other desperate souls who might steal from you. You slept on rooftops and in alleyways, exposed to the elements, and endured sickness without the advantage of medicine or a place to recuperate. You've survived despite all odds, and did so through cunning, strength, speed, or some combination of each.

You begin your adventuring career with enough money to live modestly but securely for at least ten days. How did you come by that money? What allowed you to break free of your desperate circumstances and embark on a better life?

Skill Proficiencies: Sleight of Hand, Stealth

Tool Proficiencies: Disguise kit, thieves' tools

Equipment: A small knife, a map of the city you grew up in, a pet mouse, a token to remember your parents by, a set of common clothes, and a belt pouch containing 10 gp

Alchemist

The potion seller, the one-man brewery, whatever you call them, they are your one stop shop for magical elixirs.

Perks

Experimental Brewer

At 3rd level, you are not content to stick to formal recipes in your alchemical exploration, and instead practice developing new potions, often with beneficial but wildly unpredictable results.

You gain proficiency in Alchemist supplies. When you take a Long Rest you can use Alchemist supplies and an empty flask to start the brewing of an experimental brew that finishes at the end of the long rest. When a creature drinks the brew they roll a d4 and the effect of the brew is determined by the roll.

1: Heals drinker for 2d4 + your INT modifier.

2: increase walking speed by 10ft for 1 hour.

3: drinker rolls a d4 and adds that roll to all attack rolls and saving throws for the next minute.

4: drinker gains 10ft of flying movement for 10 minutes.

Healing Additives

At 9th level, experience has tempered your rougher edges in alchemical work, and you have learned to add specific helpful properties to your brews.

Whenever you create an experimental elixir you can add either one of these effects to it: drinker gains 2d6 + your INT modifier temporary hit points or heals one disease effect or one condition of blinded, deafened, paralyzed, or poisoned.

Chemical Resistance

At 17th level, countless experiments controlled and otherwise have left their mark on you, and made you stronger for it. The worst aspects of alchemical work barely affect you anymore, inured to their harmful properties.

You are resistant to acid damage and are immune to poison.

Alienist

For whatever reason, you were born with a soul that is highly unusual in both its raw power and incredible instability.

Perks

Internalized Chaos

At 3rd level, though you were born with an unstable soul, you have learned to internalize it and use some of it to your advantage. It might not be entirely reliable but you can, at times, use it to boost spells.

When casting a spell, roll a D20, on a 20 or 19 add 1 to the DC and 1d4 to the damage when applicable.

Every 4th Level: -1 to the minimum roll required, +1 DC, Damage: next die size up

Undirected Chaos

At 9th level, as your soul grows stronger so does its instability. This instability combined with the increase in power makes controlling your magic powers more and more difficult.

Whenever you deal damage from Internalized Chaos roll a d8. The damage from Internalized chaos is now of 1 of the corresponding types: 1: acid, 2: fire, 3: cold, 4: lightning, 5: thunder, 6: necrotic, 7: force, 8: psychic. If there are other creatures with 10ft they must succeed a Fortitude or Reflex saving throw (DC: 3), unless the d8 roll resulted in a 8 in which case they must succeed a Will saving throw of the same DC, if a creature fails its saving throw then it also takes the damage from the Internalized Chaos.

Every 2nd level: +3 DC, +10ft

Uncontainable

At 17th level, the power and instability of your souls has reached unprecedented heights and as a result extending yourself too far can result in some nasty consequences.

Every time you cast a spell using within 3SP of your cap, roll a Will saving throw (DC: SP used). On a failure, you lose 10

SP and Undirected Chaos is triggered at the end of every turn. This continues until you either have less than 10SP remaining or spend a turn to forcibly end it.

Anti-Rogue

You have carefully studied the arts of stealth and underhanded tactics, but not necessarily to use them yourself. No, you studied them for weaknesses and have now a better understanding of how to combat those unseen.

Rogues of this type use INT as their Recovery modifier.

Perks

Passive Detection

At 3rd level, your time confronting those who lurk out of sight has made you constantly attentive to your surroundings, making it nearly impossible for others to sneak up on you.

Gain the Alert feat, +5 to your passive perception, and you are aware of all creatures within 5ft of you

Every 3rd Level: +5ft

Eye for Discovery

At 9th level, your perceptive capabilities have grown with experience, making thorough searches second nature.

Whenever you make an Insight check, treat a roll of 7 or lower on the d20 as an 8. You can use a free action to make a Perception check to spot a hidden creature or object or to make an Investigation check to uncover or decipher clues and you have advantage on any Perception or Investigation check if you move no more than half your speed on the same turn

Always Prepared

At 17th level, For better or worse, your training and experience meant to combat the stealthy and deceptive has left you permanently on edge, ready for anything from anywhere.

No creature can have advantage against you. Gain the Lightning Reflexes feat.

Artillerist

What's better than launching things at your enemies? Making a machine that launches things at you enemies for you!

Perks

Automated Ballista

At 3rd level, you have realized that the best way to win a battle is to fell your opponents before they can ever strike back. To that end, you have developed a specialized automaton for the sole purpose of shooting down enemies at long range.

Using Crafter's tools, you can take an action to create a Small Automated Ballista in an unoccupied space on a horizontal surface within 5 feet of you. Once you create a ballista, you can't do so again until you finish a long rest. You can have only one ballista at a time and can't create one while your ballista is present. On each of your turns, you can take a free action to cause the ballista to shoot if you are within 60 feet of it. As part of the same free action, you can direct the ballista to move up to 15 feet to an unoccupied space.

Automated Ballista

Size: small construct
Armor Class: 18
Hit Points: 25
Speed: 15 ft.
Saving Throws: +0
Skills: +0
Damage Immunities: poison, psychic
Condition Immunities: charmed, exhaustion, poisoned

Attacks

Ballista Shot: Range Weapon Attack: your power modifier to hit, range 400 ft., one target you can see. Hit: 2d6 piercing damage

Improved Ballista

At 9th level, realizing that your previous designs were insufficient, you refined the model with all the techniques and skills you have acquired since you first designed the mobile ballista, allowing you to produce a much sturdier and deadlier version.

Double the damage from your Automated Ballista, increase the movement by 10ft and add your INT score to its max health.

Every 3rd level: +1 AC

Second Ballista

At 17th level, the greatest constraint on your ballistic firepower was always your inability to maintain more than one at a time. At long last, you have managed to overcome this hurdle in some small measure, and can work with two ballistic automatons at once.

You can now have two ballistae at the same time. You can create two with the same action, and you can activate both of them with the same free action. You can't create a third cannon while you have two.

The Badger

The Badger is the deity of mountains and caves with connotations of mining, forging, lava, and order.

Perks

Enforce Order

At 3rd level, as your devotion to The Badger has deepened, they have allowed you to tap into the power of order that they represent. With this divine authority, you are newly able to subdue the unruly as your mandate decrees.

Once per Long Rest: Present your holy symbol (if cleric) and 2 NPCs of your choice that can see or hear you within 30 feet of you must succeed on a Will saving throw or become Neutral.

Every 3rd Level: Targets: +2, Range: +15ft

Every 5th Level: # of uses: +1

Forged Body

At 9th level, with your long exposure to The Badger's power, your flesh has begun to be forged into something stronger by the very nature of their divinity, protecting you from harm and insulating you from fire.

You gain minus 1d6 to fire damage against you. You gain a +1 bonus to AC.

Every 3rd level: +1d6

Every 5th Level: AC: +1

Favored Environment

At 17th level, standing among the highest of The Badger's devout throughout time, you are in tune with every layer of their divine power, and the very wilds The Badger governs resonate with your being.

While in mountainous or cavernous areas you can't have disadvantage and no one can have advantage against you

The Bear

The Bear is the deity of forest and vegetation with connotations of agriculture, bounty, shelter, and protection.

Perks

Preserve Life

At 3rd level, once per Long Rest: Present your holy symbol (if cleric) and restore a number of hit points equal to 3 times your cleric level. Choose any creatures within 30 feet of you, and divide those hit points among them.

Every 3rd Level: Range: +15ft

Every 5th Level: # of uses: +1

Nature's Wrath

At 9th level, as an action, you can cause vines to spring up and reach for a creature within 30ft of you that you can see. The creature must succeed on a Fortitude or Reflex saving throw (its choice) (DC: 8 + PSM + Proficiency) or be restrained. While restrained by the vines, the creature repeats the saving throw at the end of each of its turns. On a success, it frees itself and the vines vanish.

Protector of All

At 17th level, as a servant of The Bear, one of your greatest callings is to protect others. Your dedication to this principle exceeds almost all others, and with that comes greater divine power from The Bear to accomplish this duty, no matter what may stand in your way.

When a creature is about to take damage, and you are within 30 feet of the creature you can use a reaction to teleport to an unoccupied space within 5 feet of the creature. You then take all the damage with resistance instead.

Berserker

When in combat your single minded drive allows you to block out stimuli allowing you to and focus your entire mind on combat and nothing else.

Perks

Frenzy

At 3rd level, battle is your calling. A deep seated need to fight is in your core, and every time you give in to this need, it only grows stronger. And in that moment, your hands move of their own accord, and swing faster than you could on your own.

Once per Long Rest, you can make an attack as a free action for 2 rounds.

Every 3rd Level: # per long rest: +1 of rounds: +2

Mindless Fury

At 9th level, your need to fight is almost beyond control, and it lives in defiance of others. Your mind releases under its influence, and thus you are unable to be stopped by even magical compulsion.

You are immune to charm and frighten effects while using Frenzy.

Vengeful Retaliation

At 17th level, fighting needs no excuse, but it will happily accept one nonetheless. Your all consuming frenzy is much the same, lashing out at any who would dare bring you harm.

When you take damage from a creature, you can use your reaction to make an attack against that creature. That attack has a +2 bonus to attack and damage rolls.

Cave

From narrow burrows to expansive caverns, living in the underground regardless requires a certain set of skills. Your magical site is located in this type of location and thus endows you with abilities to aid you in your survival.

Perks

Temor Sense

At 3rd level, just because sight has been lost does not mean a presence can not be detected. You are able to feel through the ground the presence of other living creatures. Your eyes might lie but the earth never does.

As long as you are touching the ground you are aware of all creatures within 30ft of you that are also touching the ground.

Every 3rd Level: +15ft

Magma Diver

At 9th level, you have synergized yourself so much with the depths of the earth that even the most dangerous parts of it are less threatening to you.

You gain resistance to Fire damage.

At 15th Level: Immunity to fire damage

Sonar

At 17th level, your enhanced hearing allows you to create a mental map of all the terrain around you using nothing but the bouncing of sound waves.

You are aware of all terrain around you in a 60ft radius.

Champion

You treat combat as not just a job to be done but a skill to be honed through diligent practice and discipline.

Perks

Remarkable Athlete

At 3rd level, you do not merely train the muscles that swing your weapon; you train all you are, honing your whole body into a powerful machine, capable even at tasks that you haven't specialized in.

You can add half your proficiency bonus (round up) to any Strength, Dexterity, or Constitution check you make that doesn't already use your proficiency bonus.

Fighting Style

At 9th level, the long days, nights, weeks, even years of training you have put into your craft as a warrior has honed your abilities with a certain method of combat to a fine machine.

Pick a fighting style and gain its benefits:

- Archery: +2 to ranged attack rolls
- Defense: +1 AC while wearing armor
- Dueling: +2 damage when using a weapon in one hand and nothing else
- Great Weapon Fighting: when using a weapon in two hands you can reroll one of the damage die once
- Protection: when someone is attacking something with 5ft of you and you are wielding a shield you can give the attacker disadvantage
- Two Weapon Fighting: allows you to dual wield without penalty

Every 5th level:

- Archery: +1 bonus
- Defense: +1 AC
- Dueling: +1 Damage
- Great Weapon Fighting: +1 reroll
- Protection: -1 to opponent's Attack roll

Every 10th Level: Two Weapon Fighting: +1 Attack Action

Survivor

At 17th level, physical limitations are only another obstacle to overcome to a warrior as dedicated as you, and now you surpass them, able to endure almost indefinite anguish.

At the start of each of your turns, if you have no more than half of your hit points left, you regain hit points equal to 1d4 + your Recovery modifier.

Coast

Your magical site is located on the water's edge. As such you have learned to embrace the water that has come to define this location. Whether it be an ocean's beach, a lake's side, or an oasis in an otherwise unforgiving environment, anywhere there is an abundance of water it is possible for a druid of the coast to thrive.

Perks

Hydrophilic

At 3rd level, living in the water requires a different set of skills from living on land; your magical site has imparted some of these skills to give you a chance in the water.

You can breathe underwater effortlessly and walk on the surface of water.

Hydrodynamic

At 9th level, water easily flows around you, allowing you to move quickly through water with ease.

Your swimming speed doubles.

Every 3rd Level: Swimming speed: +10ft

Hydromorphic

At 17th level, You have become so adept to your chosen environment that you have physically become one with it, turning into a clear liquid state while submerged.

While fully submerged in water you are invisible and are resistant to all non-magical and fire damage.

The Crab

The Crab is the deity of ocean and lakes with connotations of oceanic storms (hurricanes and such), tsunamis, sea life, fishing, and capriciousness.

Perks

Wrath of the Storm

At 3rd level, the devotion you have nurtured for The Crab has granted you access to the retributive power of the oceanic storms they govern, which strike vengefully at those who would harm The Crab's followers.

When a creature within 5 feet of you that you can see hits you with an attack, you can use your reaction to cause the creature to make a Reflex saving throw (DC: 8 + PSM + Proficiency). The creature takes 1d8 Force damage on a failed saving throw, and half as much damage on a successful one

Every 3rd Level: Damage: +1d8, Range: +5ft

Misty Waters

At 9th level, you have become well acquainted with the capricious nature of the divine power you serve, and how that nature serves The Crab and their flock. Just as The Crab's storm can lash out in vengeance, so too can they cloak your movements from enemy view.

Once per Long Rest: Present your holy symbol (if cleric) and as an action you can channel the sea to create a thick cloud of fog that surrounds you and heavily obscures the area in a 20ft Radius, following you as you move. You and all creatures within 5 feet of you instead treat this fog as lightly obscured. This fog lasts for 10 minutes, spreads around corners and cannot be dispersed.

Every 3rd Level: Range: +10ft

Every 5th Level: # of uses: +1

Crushing Waves

At 17th level, little is deadlier about a storm rolling in off the open sea than the rising tide that drowns the coast. Your nearly unparalleled service to The Crab has put these tides at your service, bludgeoning those who would oppose you into submission.

You can call crashing waters around you as a reaction whenever a creature enters or exits your melee range. The creature takes 1d12 bludgeoning damage and must succeed a Fortitude saving throw (DC: 8 + PSM + Proficiency Bonus) or be knocked prone.

Demonic Bloodline

Somewhere back in your lineage you will find the Harbinger of the Raven herself. The Harbinger is known for her immense magical power and so of course that power can be passed down the generations. Anyone willing to nurture these powers will find that their potential goes a bit beyond mortal limits.

Perks

Inherent Resilience

At 3rd level, It might not be very noticeable but your body and soul are measurably sturdier and stronger than average thanks to your ancestry.

Permanent +1 to your Constitution and Charisma Score.

Every 5th level: +1 Constitution and Charisma Score

Divine Inheritance

At 9th level, The Raven gifted the Harbinger with immense divine power and now you have inherited some of that divine soul energy giving you a boost to spells that align with that soul energy.

Spells you cast dealing fire damage now deal double damage when a creature rolls a natural 1 or 2 on their saving throw.

Super Tiefling

At 17th level, the caster allows their demonic energy to consume them, infuses them with the power of a deity, greatly increasing their magical power and also allows them to cast their spells with little to no effort, but distorting their physical form. This transformation gives them large raven wings allowing for flight, the general appearance of a tiefling but with larger canines, as well as making their sclera black and their irises glow red.

Spend 15 SP to enter this state and then 5 SP every turn to stay in this state: double the bonuses from SP investments, spells have their base cost reduced by your SP cap (Minimum: 0), 60ft of flying movement, Strength and Constitution Score +6, and Dexterity Score +2.

The Eagle

The Eagle is the deity of the day sky and the sun with connotations of sunlight, wind, lightning, fire, and righteousness.

Perks

Radiant Dawn

At 3rd level, once Per Long Rest: As an action, you present your holy symbol (if cleric) and any magical darkness within 30 feet of you is dispelled. Additionally, each hostile creature within 30 feet of you must make a Fortitude saving throw. A creature takes radiant damage equal to 1d10 + PSM on a failed saving throw, and half as much damage on a successful one. A creature that has total cover from you is not affected.

Every 3rd Level: Range: +10ft

Every 5th Level: # of uses: +1, Damage: +1d10

Flash Bang

At 9th level, when you are attacked by a creature within 30 feet of you that you can see or a creature that you can see within 30 feet of you attacks a creature other than you, you can use your reaction to impose disadvantage on the attack roll, causing light to flare before the attacker before it hits or misses.

Every 3rd Level: Range: +20ft

Sun's Domain

At 17th level, you can use an action to activate an aura of sunlight that lasts for 1 minute or until you dismiss it using another action. You emit bright light in a 60-foot radius and dim light 30 feet beyond that. Your enemies in the bright light have disadvantage on saving throws against any spell that deals fire, lightning, or radiant damage.

Eye of the Storm

Your emotions are a powerful force, even without magic. Your attacks unleash your inner fury that can be likened to the wax and waning of a powerful storm.

Perks

Calm Before the Storm

At 3rd level, you know how to balance fury and stoicism. By condensing your passion within yourself, you can take on a semblance of calm, before unleashing your full destructive potential in a powerful burst.

You can choose to make no action during your turn and no reaction until your next turn and on your next turn the first attack you make has advantage and if it hits is an automatic critical.

Subsiding Fury

At 9th level, drive requires more than internal motivation. You have learned to make your successes feed your drive, and are invigorated upon striking a decisive blow.

After landing a critical you have +3 to attack and damage rolls for the rest of the round and each subsequent round the bonus is lessened by 1 until it reaches 0.

Every 3rd level: +1 to initial attack and damage bonus

Death Spiral

At 17th level, with time, you have cultivated your fury into something far surpassing your own physical limits. Unable to let loose this fury under most circumstances, you have at last been able to break your own limits, and in this state, nothing can stand before you.

Once per Long Rest, you can enter a Death Spiral for the rest of combat. You can make no other actions or reactions except attacking and every turn you must make the maximum amount of attacks possible. You have 3 actions per turn instead of 2 and your attack and damage rolls have a +5 bonus.

Forest

Lush vegetation and thick canopies are as common as the ground you walk on. Taking aid when you can and becoming one with your environment is key in such places, and so you have taken this to the extreme finding aid and oneness with the very plants that permeate the world.

Perks

Tree Jumping

At 3rd level, the branches of the woodlands form a community no less harmonious than any among the sentient species, and you who live among them may partake of their aid.

You can enter a tree large enough to encase you and exit another tree of the same kind within 60ft at the cost of 10ft of movement.

At 5th Level: -5ft Cost

Every 3rd Level: +10ft Distance

Fertile Aura

At 9th level, your time in the forest has imbued your very presence with the power to stimulate plant growth.

As an action, you can make thick vegetation continuously grow all around you in a 15ft radius and any creature you are not allied with treats this area as rough terrain. You can dismiss the vegetation with an action or it will wilt after exiting your radius.

Every 3rd Level: +15ft

Dendro Metamorphosis

At 17th level, you become one with the trees that you have become so familiar with. Your skin turns to bark and your very being begins to melt away as you become one with the trees.

Your AC never goes below 15 and you gain Resistance to Bludgeoning, Piercing, Necrotic, and Radiant damage, but also Vulnerability to Fire damage. Your spell die is a d20 whenever you are fully exposed to sunlight.

Glacier

Frozen tundras and frigid taigas. These are the types of places you will find a glacier druid in their natural element. These environments can be unforgiving and thus the druids of this type are gifted powers that reflect the harsh nature that characterizes a life lived in these areas.

Perks

Cold to the Touch

At 3rd level, things that grow in cold unforgiving environments need to be able to survive in such inclement weather. Living in such an environment has given you the resilience needed to survive in these places and punish those who can not.

You gain resistance to Cold damage and any creature you touch, if you will it, takes 1d4 cold damage both when you first come in contact with them and at the start of each of their turns that they remain in contact with you.

Frigid Aura

At 9th level, there is comfort in the cover of snow, it's not called a blanket for nothing, unfortunately not everyone feels the same. They can suffer for it.

As an action, create or dismiss a whirling blizzard around them in a 15ft radius. This blizzard can be dismissed with an action. Any creature you are not allied with within this radius treats the area as heavily obscured and must succeed a Fortitude (DC: 10+PSM) on their turn or take 1d4 cold damage.

Wintry Traversal

At 17th level, you are so used to walking across frozen lakes and trudging through mountains of snow that the cold is no longer an issue and you move across such environments with ease.

You gain immunity to Cold damage and your movement across surfaces whether steeped in snow or covered in ice are unaffected by such obstacles.

The Hare

The Hare is the deity of tundras and glaciers with connotations of the cold, ice, winter, snow, blizzards, and community.

Perks

Community Bond

At 3rd level, you can forge a bond among people who are at peace with one another. After a 10 minute ritual, you choose a number of willing creatures within 30 feet of you (this can include yourself) equal to your proficiency bonus +1. You create a magical bond between them. While any bonded creature is within 30 feet of another, the creature can roll a d4 and add the number rolled to any skill check. Each creature can add the d4 no more than once per round.

Passionate Bond

At 9th level, the people affected by your Community Bond can use their extra die for attack rolls, the range is increased to 60ft and the die is changed to a d8.

Life Bond

At 17th level, the people affected by your Community Bond can use their extra die for saving throws, the range is increased to 90ft and the die is changed to a d12.

Mountain

Living among the mountain tops can be treacherous, but the rewards of reaching a summit are unparalleled. Those who align themselves with these environments find themselves increasingly unimpeded by the struggles that act as a barrier against those who would seek the summit and slopes you call home.

Perks

Natural Mountaineer

At 3rd level, each stone lends its strength to the mountain, and the mountain gives each stone strength; you will find that stones never give way underfoot, and that your ascent shall never be impeded.

You are able to climb any stone surface unhindered and your climbing speed is equal to your walking speed.

Every 3rd Level: Climbing speed: +10ft

Stone Skin

At 9th level, your skin becomes as tough and resilient as the rocks that make up the mountains you know so well.

Your AC never goes below 16 and you gain the Stone property regardless of the armor you wear.

Every 3rd Level: +1 AC

Meld into Stone

At 17th level, you have spent so much time traversing stone from the outside that it's like you have become one with it. And in a world with magic, why shouldn't that be taken literally?

Use 2 actions to walk into solid stone. While within stone, your movement can take you in any direction and you have disadvantage on all perception checks to perceive outside of the stone. Minor physical damage to the stone doesn't harm you, but its destruction or a change in its shape (to the extent that you no longer fit within it) expels you and deals 6d6 bludgeoning damage to you. If expelled, you fall prone in an unoccupied space closest to where you were.

The Owl

The Owl is the deity of the night sky and the moon with connotations of moonlight, wind, rain, standing water, calmness, and neutrality.

Perks

Owl's Vision

At 3rd level, you have darkvision out to a range of 300 feet. In that radius, you can see in dim light as if it were bright light and in darkness as if it were dim light. Once per Long Rest: As an action, you can magically share the darkvision of this feature with willing creatures you can see within 10 feet of you, up to a number of creatures equal to your proficiency bonus. The shared darkvision lasts for 1 hour.

Night Flight

At 9th level, As an action when you are in dim light or darkness, you can magically give yourself a flying speed equal to your walking speed for 1 minute. You can use this action a number of times equal to your proficiency bonus, and you regain all uses when you finish a long rest.

Moonlight Sanctuary

At 17th level, once per Short Rest: As an action, you present your holy symbol, and a sphere of Moonlight emanates from you. The sphere is centered on you, has a 60-foot radius, and is filled with dim light. The sphere moves with you, and it lasts for 1 minute or until you are incapacitated or die. you and your allies have half cover while in the sphere. Whenever a creature (including you) ends its turn in the sphere, you can grant that creature one of these benefits: You grant it temporary hit points equal to 1d6 + PSM, or you end one effect on it causing it to be charmed or frightened.

Plains

Open fields of grass and rolling hills are known for their frequent and wild winds and the collective awareness of the animals that graze there. As a druid living in this you have embodied these elements and abilities and bend them to your will.

Perks

Slinking Gale

At 3rd level, just like the wind that so often blows through grasslands, you are granted that same swiftness and tracelessness.

Your speed is increased by 15ft, you gain an extra action on your turn, and you gain a +5 to Stealth checks.

Every 3rd Level: Stealth check bonus: +1, Speed: +15ft

Herd Awareness

At 9th level, you trust your allies and that trust grants a sense of shared awareness between you.

If you and an allied creature are within 15ft of each other, any creature you or your ally are aware of, the other is also aware of.

Every 3rd Level: +15ft

Walking Tornado

At 17th level, you have learned to embody the winds that make the plains calming to the point where you can access and harness them at their most destructive.

As an action, you can create or dismiss a whirling typhoon around yourself in a 60ft radius. This wind can be dismissed with an action. Any creature you are not allied with within this radius on their turn must succeed a Fortitude(DC: 10+PSM) or be moved away 10ft and succeed a Reflex(DC: 8+PSM) or take 1d6 bludgeoning damage.

Phantom

To you, death as an old friend, you have encountered it many times, not through your own misfortune, but through introducing others with your own hands.

Rogues of this type use INT as their Recovery modifier.

Perks

Phantom Attack

At 3rd level, you've learned better than to put all your eggs in one basket. Better to use the very advantage of stealth as a cover for an even more insidious attack than to rely on the most banal of deceit.

Once per Long Rest, immediately after you deal damage to a creature on your turn from an attack with advantage, you can target a second creature within your range, if your attack roll from the last attack would hit that creature, roll for damage against that creature as if it were a critical.

Every 3rd level: # of uses +1

Death Token

At 9th level, the vestiges of life, captured in the moment of death, hold real power. After spending so much time around death, you have learned to use this power to your own dark ends, invigorating yourself in the face of danger or twisting the knife just right to land a deadly blow.

As a reaction when a creature you can see dies within 5 feet of you, you can take a Tiny trinket from their corpse as a Death Token, you can have a maximum number of Death Tokens equal to your proficiency bonus and each Death Token has only one use. You can use a Death Token to give yourself advantage on Fortitude or Death saves, or give an attack of yours advantage when it otherwise would not have.

Phantom Stroll

At 17th level, you've spent a long time entrapping and harnessing vestiges of the recently deceased. That experience has brought you closer to the state of these vestiges, and through sheer willpower, you can force yourself fully into that state without abandoning life, rendering you nearly untouchable by foes and the world itself.

Once per Long Rest or at the expense of a Death Token, you can use an action and for the next 10 minutes attacks against you have disadvantage and you can move through difficult terrain unhindered.

The Raven

The Raven is the deity of death and the Underworld with connotations of fire, portals & gateways, and revenge.

Perks

Marked for Death

At 3rd level, once per Long Rest: As an action, you choose one creature you can see within 30 feet of you, cursing it until the end of your next turn. The next time you or an ally of yours hits the cursed creature with an attack or spell, the creature takes double damage, and then the curse ends.

Every 3rd Level: Range: +10ft

Every 5th Level: # of uses: +1

Delay Inevitable

At 9th level, As a reaction when you or a creature you can see within 30 feet of you suffers a critical hit, you can turn that hit into a normal hit. Any effects triggered by a critical hit are canceled. You can use this feature a number of times equal to your proficiency bonus. You regain all expended uses when you finish a long rest.

Every 3rd Level: Range: +20ft

True Life

At 17th level, as a reaction, when an enemy you can see dies within 60 feet of you, you and/or one creature of your choice that is within 60 feet of you regains HP the total of which is equal to half the enemy's Max HP. You can use this feature only if you aren't incapacitated.

Roboticist

Creating a mechanism with a single purpose is all well and good but what high calling is there for an engineer but to recreate the marvelous designs of nature.

Perks

War Automaton

At 3rd level, not content to tinker with tools and gizmos, you turn your mechanical pursuits to the mythical homunculi, attempting to capture the art of animating a companion with nothing but mechanical prowess.

At the end of a long rest, you can create a new war automaton if you have your Crafter's tools with you. If you already have a war automaton from this feature, the first one immediately perishes. The automaton also perishes if you die.

War Automaton

Size: Medium construct

Armor Class: 15

Hit Points: 2 + your INT modifier + five times your level (the automaton has a Hit Die of 1d8)

Speed: 40 ft.

STR	DEX	CON	INT	WIS	CHA
14 (+2)	12 (+1)	14 (+2)	4 (−3)	10 (+0)	6 (−2)

Poise Health: 10 + CON mod

Poise Recovery: 1d4 + DEX mod

Proficiency bonus (PB): equal to yours

Saving Throws: Dex: + PB, Con: + PB

Skills: Athletics: +PB, Perception: +(PB*2)

Damage Immunities: poison

Condition Immunities: charmed, exhaustion, poisoned

Senses: darkvision 60 ft.

Languages: understands the languages you speak

Vigilant. The defender can't be surprised.

Actions

Mechanical-Empowered Rend: Melee Weapon Attack: your power modifier to hit, reach 5 ft., one target you can see. Hit: 1d8 + PB (physical damage type)

Repair (3 per day): The mechanisms inside the automaton restore 2d8 + PB hit points to itself.

Reaction

Deflect Attack: The automaton imposes disadvantage on the attack roll of one creature it can see that is within 5 feet of it, provided the attack roll is against a creature other than the automaton.

Modular Improvements

At 9th level, as with all things, practice makes perfect, and your time with your mechanical companion is no different. Having developed an intense familiarity with the design and workings of the automaton, you know exactly what to tweak to get the performance you want.

Whenever you finish a long rest you can add one of these improvements to your automaton, you can only have one of these improvements applied at a time:

1. add another d8 to physical damage
2. +2 AC
3. +2 STR, DEX, and CON score

Increased Modularity

At 17th level, with great experience comes great skill, and with great skill comes great results. You have spent so long tuning up your automaton that you can push its abilities even further than before.

When you use modular improvements you can either double the bonuses of one or pick a second to also be applied.

Scout

Agility and quick thinking are invaluable skills on the battlefield and you have honed those particular skills of yours to the highest degree

Rogues of this type use INT as their Recovery modifier.

Perks

Agile Movement

At 3rd level, a scout has no place in the line of fire, and it is of the utmost importance to remain safe to maintain information and awareness. You have cultivated this philosophy into special techniques to withdraw from dangerous situations.

You can use your reaction to move up to half your movement speed when an enemy ends its turn within 5 feet of you. This movement doesn't provoke opportunity attacks.

Ambush Tactics

At 9th level, few in your line of work fight fair, but your focus on tactical analysis and situational awareness has made you keenly able at striking opponents before they know what hit them.

You have advantage on initiative rolls. Attack rolls against the first creature you hit during the first round of a combat have advantage until the start of your next turn.

Sudden Attack

At 17th level, it is good to gather intel on the enemy and report back, but all the better to scatter and disorient them before the cavalry cleans up the mess. You've learned to fight fast and with surprise to best sow such havoc.

If you take the Attack action on your turn, you can make one additional attack on another creature as a free action. This attack has advantage.

Shadow

You were not merely adopted by the darkness, you were born in it, raised by it. Some may call you evil, but even if you are that would just make you a necessary evil.

Rogues of this type use CHA as their Recovery modifier.

Perks

Deny Death

At 3rd level, darkness is an old friend, and it would never claim you when your life serves it so much better.

When damage reduces you to 0 hit points, you can make a Will saving throw (DC: 5 + the damage taken). On a success, you instead drop to 1 hit point. You can only use this ability once per long rest.

Every 6th level: # of uses +1

Shadow Swiftness

At 9th level, out of sight and out of mind, you can blend into the darkness and move with a swiftness that your physical body could not attain alone.

When you are in dim light or darkness, you can take an action and make a stealth check with a DC of 6 + (2*# of enemies that can see you), on a success your base movement is doubled until you're spotted or enter bright light. Every round at the beginning of your turn you need to make another stealth check to maintain stealth.

Shadow Defenses

At 17th level, you have become nearly one and the same as the darkness you lurk in, sheltering you from all harm.

When you are in dim light or darkness, attacks against you have disadvantage and damage of all forms are halved.

Specialist

Your magic power doesn't come from chance, your bloodline, or an innate connection to the occult. But through sheer grit and hard work you have carved out your magical niche and know it better than most magic users.

Your starting spells depend on your magical specialty. Magical Specialties: Beguiler, Dendromancer, Hydromancer, Illusionist, Keraunomancer, Necromancer, Pyromancer.

Perks

Specialized Knowledge

At 3rd level, you have a deeper understanding of your magical specialty then most arcane casters and thus are more able to draw out the power of the spells within your specialty.

You have double proficiency on arcana checks that involve your specialty

Second Nature Casting

At 9th level, casting the spells you have specialized has become second nature.

All spells from your specialty's starting list have an initial cost of 0SP.

Spell Expertise

At 17th level, you have become so familiar with your specialty that your effort has been rewarded twice over.

When you cast a spell from your starting list all SP investment is doubled

Streetfighter

Your time on the mean streets of the medieval version of Detroit have hardened you and made you ready for physical conflict at any time and any place.

Rogues of this type use CHA as their Recovery modifier.

Perks

Street Smarts

At 3rd level, You've spent a lot of time in alleys, taverns, and other places full of unsavory types. This experience has taught you how to fight with whatever is at hand and survive the streets.

Gain the Tavern Brawler feat and you have advantage on survival checks when in an urban environment. Gain the Lightning Reflexes feat.

Armed and Ready

At 9th level, Any encounter could be your last when fights break out at a moment's notice and no one fights fair. You've survived this long, though, which has made you spry and resilient under pressure.

Gain +1 to initiative and once per long rest roll a Fortitude save with the DC of the raw attack roll to halve the damage taken

Every 3rd level: +1 initiative

Every 6th level: +1 per long rest

Surprise Upset

At 17th level, you know better than to keep your guard up all the time. Instead, you lure in unwary foes by seeming to expose yourself, only to turn their supposed advantage into their weakness.

Gain the Parry feat if you don't already have it. On a successful parry, if the incoming attack had advantage, you gain advantage on your counter attack and your opponent has disadvantage on all attack rolls against you this turn.

Swamp

Areas of stagnant water that seep into the ground are known to breed disease and fester with poison. You have spent enough time living in this type of environment that the danger they present is of no threat to you and your very body has begun becoming one with these substances

Perks

Internalized Venom

At 3rd level, things that grow in the swamp need to be resilient to the toxins that are rampant in such areas. After spending time in these hostile areas you have not only gained the resilience needed to survive in these environments but have internalized it to your very core.

You are immune to Disease and Poison and your blood deals 1d6 acid damage to anyone who touches it.

Every 5th Level: +1d6

Toxic Breath

At 9th level, you can channel the toxicity of your blood into your very breath, causing an expulsion of a highly toxic gas.

Once per Short Rest, as an action, you can breathe a sphere of poison mist centered 5ft away from you with a radius of 5ft that lasts for 3 rounds. Any creature within the mist must succeed a Fortitude saving throw (DC: 8+PSM) every turn it is within the mist or take 1d8 poison damage.

Every 5th Level: Range and distance: +5ft, Duration: +3 rounds, # of uses: +1

Insect Swarm

At 17th level, you can call upon a plague of insects to ravage your enemies. Eating away at their very skin partially obscuring their view.

As an action, you can create a sphere of insects within 60ft away from you with a radius of up to 30ft that can be dismissed with an action. Everyone but you treats this sphere as lightly obscured. Any non-allied creature within the sphere must succeed a Fortitude saving throw (DC: 8+PSM) every turn it is within the sphere or take 2d12 piercing damage and half damage on a success.

Wasteland

Wastelands such as hot and cold deserts and areas devastated by “intelligent” interference are not only difficult places to live but are actively hostile towards life. Anything that lacks the will or the fortitude to persist in the face of open malice is mercilessly killed and left to rot.

Perks

Withering Touch

At 3rd level, nothing can truly live in a wasteland, and thus anything embodying the power of a wasteland becomes hostile towards life, destroying it upon contact.

Any creature that comes in contact with you, if you will it, takes 1d6 necrotic damage both when it first comes in contact with you and at the start of each of its turns that it remains in contact with you.

Every 6th Level: +1d6

Vulture's Omen

At 9th level, You are able to sense when Death is near, allowing you to either prepare for the worst or take advantage of an opportunity brought about by the weakness of others.

You are aware of all creatures below 1/4 of their max health within 30ft of you and attacks have advantage against them and they have disadvantage on all saving throws. When you are below 1/4 of your max health you have advantage on all saving throws and no attacks can have advantage against you.

Aura of Decay

At 17th level, your very presence can be deadly if you wish it to be, causing those around you to weaken until they eventually wither and perish.

As an action, activate an aura with a radius of 30ft and all non-allied creatures that start their turn in it must succeed a Fortitude saving throw (DC: 14+PSM) or gain a level of exhaustion.

Weapon Master

You've extensively trained with a certain type of weapon and have come to an intimate understanding of its strengths and limitations and how to most optimally deploy them in combat.

Rogues of this type use INT as their Recovery modifier.

Perks

Weapon Expertise

At 3rd level, It is one thing to be able to use a weapon, and another to know how to use it. Each weapon has a way it can be held, it can be swung, that brings out extra power and control. You have found this way with the weapon you dedicate yourself to.

Pick either an exotic weapon or a weapon class you are proficient in. While using that weapon you have the Parry feat and you have +1 to your attack rolls and damage with that weapon.

Improved Critical

At 9th level, There is more to striking an opponent than simply hitting them. Whether armored or in plain cloth, where and how you hit is just as important to securing a decisive victory. With your weapon of choice, you have become exceptionally adept at hitting just where you need to.

Rolling a natural 19 on attack rolls counts for critical damage

Endless Assault

At 17th level, You have spent so long with a weapon in your hands that it is just as natural to strike a foe as it is to breathe. With your specialized skills, that is even more true, and you almost can't help but attack faster and faster just from the sensation of wielding your chosen weapon in battle.

If you attack on your turn you can make one bonus attack per turn on the same creature.

Wild Disciple

Who needs society and civilization to teach them how to fight? You rely on your experience and instincts to guide you in combat. Some may call you undisciplined but you know better than to expect control in the heat of combat.

Perks

Call of the Wild

At 3rd level, caged in by civilization, most have forgotten the ways of surviving in the wild. You are not of their ilk. You know your way across cliffs and through undergrowth, and can survive these environments through your knowledge of the terrain and your constant awareness.

You have advantage on survival checks and while in natural environments you have advantage on initiative.

Rules of Nature

At 9th level, to be victorious in nature is not necessarily to kill, but to survive. When things turn against you, something unspeakably primal wells up inside you, giving you the strength to escape from certain peril.

While at ¼ max health or below, your base speed is increased by x1.5 and you can attack, disengage, or dodge as a free action.

Natural Killer

At 17th level, plants and animals, even mountains and storms ... none of these things fight fair. You know how best to return the favor, turning every misstep into an opening, reacting faster than your opponent, striking them before they ever hit you.

Gain the Lightning Reflexes feat. Someone missing an attack against you provokes an opportunity attack from you.

GESTALT CLASSES

Gestalt classes are a multiclass option where a character's class is considered as equal components of two base classes. At first level, the two base classes for the gestalt class are chosen, and the Endurance, Power, and Recovery attributes of the gestalt class are permanently selected to be either of the options presented by the base classes (note that the same attribute cannot be used for more than one of Endurance, Power, and Recovery (Author's Note: if you use Charisma as your poise power it is called swoon damage)).

Additionally, one subclass from each base class is chosen, and each time a class or subclass perk would be chosen, it can be chosen from either base class or subclass, respectively and you can pick from previous level's perks. For starting equipment pick one of the component classes and take the starting equipment of that class only.

When gestalting with a spellcasting class, if the other class also has spell casting, for your total SP and SP cap take the average and round up, if the other class doesn't have spellcasting take half and round up. For the spell die take the lower of the two unless one is a physical class in which case use the spell die for the spellcasting class.

When it comes to a gestalt class' hit die, take the lower of both.

FEATS

Actor

Skilled at mimicry and dramatics, you gain the following benefits:

. Increase your Charisma score by 1, to a maximum of 30.

. You have advantage on Deception and Performance checks when trying to pass yourself off as a different person.

. You can mimic the speech of another person or the sounds made by other creatures. You must have heard the person speaking, or heard the creature make the sound, for at least 1 minute. A successful Insight check contested by your Deception check allows a listener to determine that the effect is faked.

Alert

Always on the lookout for danger, you gain the following benefits:

. You gain a +5 bonus to initiative.

. You can't be surprised while you are conscious.

. Other creatures don't gain advantage on attack rolls against you as a result of being hidden from you.

Armor Master

You gain the following benefits:

. Wearing Noisey armor doesn't impose disadvantage on your Stealth checks.

. While you are wearing armor, regular, bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing damage that you take from non-magical weapons is reduced by 3.

Athlete

You have undergone extensive physical training to gain the following benefits:

. Increase your Strength or Dexterity score by 1, to a maximum of 30.

. When you are prone, standing up uses only 5 feet of your movement.

. Climbing doesn't halve your speed.

. You can make a running long jump or a running high jump after moving only 5 feet on foot, rather than 10 feet.

Charger

When you use your action to Dash, you can use a free action to make one melee weapon attack or to shove a creature.

If you move at least 10 feet in a straight line immediately before taking this free action, you either gain a +5 bonus to the attack's damage roll (if you chose to make a melee attack and hit) or push the target up to 10 feet away from you (if you chose to shove and you succeed).

Crossbow Expert

Thanks to extensive practice with the crossbow, you gain the following benefits:

. You ignore the loading quality of crossbows with which you are proficient.
. When you use the Attack action and attack with a one-handed weapon, you can use a free action to attack with a loaded hand crossbow you are holding.

Defensive Duelist

Prerequisite: Dexterity 13 or higher

When you are wielding a finesse weapon with which you are proficient and another creature hits you with a melee attack, you can use your reaction to add your proficiency bonus to your AC for that attack, potentially causing the attack to miss you.

Dual Wielder

You master fighting with two weapons, gaining the following benefits:
. You can dual wield any melee weapons with the one-handed property.
. You gain a +1 bonus to AC while you are wielding a separate melee weapon in each hand.
. You can draw or stow two one-handed weapons when you would normally be able to draw or stow only one.

Dungeon Delver

Alert to the hidden traps and secret doors found in many dungeons, you gain the following benefits:
. You have advantage on Wisdom (Perception) and Intelligence (Investigation) checks made to detect the presence of secret doors.
. You have advantage on saving throws made to avoid or resist traps.
. You have resistance to the damage dealt by traps.
. You can search for traps while traveling at a normal pace, instead of only at a slow pace.

Durable

Hardy and resilient, you gain the following benefits:
. Increase your Constitution score by 1, to a maximum of 30.
. When you roll a Hit Die to regain hit points, the minimum number of hit points you regain from the roll equals twice your Constitution modifier (minimum of 2).

Elemental Adept

Prerequisite: The ability to cast at least one spell
. Choose one of the following damage types: acid, cold, fire, lightning, or thunder.
. Spells you cast ignore resistance to damage of the chosen type.
. In addition, when you roll damage for a spell you cast that deals damage of that type, you can treat any 1 on a damage die as a 2.
. You can select this feat multiple times. Each time you do so, you must choose a different damage type.

Grappler

Prerequisite: Strength 13 or higher

You've developed the skills necessary to hold your own in close-quarters grappling. You gain the following benefits:

. You have advantage on attack rolls against a creature you are grappling.

. You can use your action to try to pin a creature grappled by you. To do so, make another grapple check. If you succeed, you and the creature are both restrained until the grapple ends.

. Creatures that are one size larger than you don't automatically succeed on checks to escape your grapple.

Great Weapon Master

You've learned to put the weight of a weapon to your advantage, letting its momentum empower your strikes. When wielding a Two-Handed weapon you gain the following benefits:

. On your turn, when you score a critical hit with a melee weapon or reduce a creature to 0 hit points with one, you can make one melee weapon attack as a free action.

. Before you make a melee attack with a weapon that you are proficient with, you can choose to take a -5 penalty to the attack roll. If the attack hits, you add +10 to the attack's damage.

Healer

You are an able physician, allowing you to mend wounds quickly and get your allies back in the fight. You gain the following benefits:

. When you use a healer's kit to stabilize a dying creature, that creature also regains its hit point.

. As an action, you can spend one use of a healer's kit to tend to a creature and restore ld6 + 4 hit points to it, plus additional hit points equal to the creature's maximum number of Hit Dice, The creature can't regain hit points from this feat again until it finishes a short or long rest.

Inspiring Leader

Prerequisite: Charisma 13 or higher

You can spend 10 minutes inspiring your companions, shoring up their resolve to fight. When you do so, choose up to six friendly creatures (which can include yourself) within 30 feet of you who can see or hear you and who can understand you. Each creature can gain temporary hit points equal to your level + your Charisma modifier. A creature can't gain temporary hit points from this feat again until it has finished a short or long rest.

Keen Mind

You have a mind that can track time, direction, and detail with uncanny precision. You gain the following benefits:

. Increase your Intelligence score by 1, to a maximum of 30.

. You always know which way is north.

. You always know the number of hours left before the next sunrise or sunset.

. You can accurately recall anything you have seen or heard within the past month.

Lightning Reflexes

You have faster than normal reflexes, gaining the following benefits:

. +2 Reflex saves

. You have a second reaction

Linguist

You have studied languages and codes, gaining the following benefits:

. Increase your Intelligence score by l-, to a maximum of 30.

. You can ably create written ciphers. Others can't decipher a code you create unless you teach them, they succeed on an Intelligence check (DC equal to your Intelligence score + your proficiency bonus), or they use magic to decipher it.

Lucky

You have inexplicable luck that seems to kick in at just the right moment.

You have 3 luck points. Whenever you make an attack roll, an ability check, or a saving throw, you can spend one luck point to roll an additional d20. You can choose to spend one of your luck points after you roll the die, but before the outcome is determined. You choose which of the d20s is used for the attack ro11, ability check, or saving throw.

You can also spend one luck point when an attack roll is made against you. Roll a d20, and then choose whether the attack uses the attacker's roll or yours.

If more than one creature spends a luck point to influence the outcome of a roll, the points cancel each other out; no additional dice are rolled.

You regain your expended luck points when you finish a long rest.

Magic Slayer

You have practiced techniques useful in melee combat against spellcasters, gaining the following benefits:

. When a creature within 5 feet of you casts a spell, you can use your reaction to make a melee weapon attack against that creature.

. When you damage a creature that is concentrating on a spell, that creature has disadvantage on the saving throw it makes to maintain its concentration.

. You have advantage on saving throws against spells cast by creatures within 5 feet of you.

Martial Adept

You have martial training that allows you to perform special combat maneuvers. You gain the following benefits:

. You learn two maneuvers of your choice from among those available to the Battle Master archetype in the fighter class. If a maneuver you use requires your target to make a saving throw to resist the maneuver's effects, the saving throw DC equals + your proficiency bonus + your Strength or Dexterity modifier (your choice).

. If you already have superiority dice, you gain one more; otherwise, you have one superiority die, which is a d6. This die is used to fuel your maneuvers. A superiority die is expended when you use it. You regain your expended superiority dice when you finish a short or long rest.

Mobile

You are exceptionally speedy and agile. You gain the following benefits:
. Your speed increases by 10 feet.
. When you use the Dash action, difficult terrain doesn't cost you extra movement on that turn.
. When you make a melee attack against â creature, you don't provoke opportunity attacks from that creature for the rest of the turn, whether you hit or not.

Mounted Combatant

You are a dangerous foe to face while mounted. While you are mounted and aren't incapacitated, you gain the following benefits:
. You have advantage on melee attack rolls against any unmounted creature that is smaller than your mount.
. You can force an attack targeted at your mount to target you instead.
. If your mount is subjected to an effect that allows it to make a Dexterity saving throw to take only half damage, it instead takes no damage if it succeeds on the saving throw, and only half damage if it fails.

Multitasker

Prerequisite: The ability to cast at least one spell
The nimbleness of your mind is a wonder to behold, allowing you to concentrate fully on multiple things at once.
. You can have up to 2 Concentration spell active at once

Observant

Quick to notice details of your environment, you gain the following benefits:
. Increase your Intelligence or Wisdom Score by 1, to a maximum of 30.
. If you can see a creature's mouth while it is speaking a language you understand, you can interpret what it's saying by reading its lips.
. You have a +5 bonus to your passive Perception and passive Investigation

Parry

When a physical attack made against you would hit, you can use your reaction to make a melee attack roll and if your attack roll beats the parry DC (the attack roll of the attack you’re parrying) you don’t take damage and you can make a counter attack as part of the same reaction if the person that attacked you is within your melee range.

Polearm Master

You can keep your enemies at bay with reach weapons. You gain the following benefits:

. When you take the Attack action and attack with only a polearm, you can make a free action to make a melee attack with the opposite end of the weapon. The weapon's damage die for this attack is 1d4, and the attack deals bludgeoning damage.

. While you are wielding a polearm, other creatures provoke an opportunity attack from you when they enter your reach.

Resilient

Choose one ability score. You gain the following benefits:

. Increase the chosen ability score by 1, to a maximum of 30.

. You gain proficiency in the saving throw using the chosen ability.

Savage Attacker

Once per turn when you roll damage for a melee weapon attack, you can reroll the weapon's damage dice and use either total.

Sentinel

You have mastered techniques to take advantage of every drop in any enemy's guard, gaining the following benefits:

. When you hit a creature with an opportunity attack, the creature's speed becomes 0 for the rest of the turn.

. Creatures within 5 feet of you provoke opportunity attacks from you even if they take the Disengage action before leaving your reach.

. When a creature within 5 feet of you makes an attack against a target other than you (and that target doesn't have this feat), you can use your reaction to make a melee weapon attack against the attacking creature.

. Your opportunity attack are provoked by enemies moving through your threat range

Sharpshooter

You have mastered ranged weapons and can make shots that others find impossible. You gain the following benefits:

. Your ranged weapon attacks ignore half cover and three-quarters cover.

. Before you make an attack with a ranged weapon that you are proficient with, you can choose to take a -5 penalty to the attack roll. If the attack hits, you add +10 to the attack's damage.

Shield Master

You use shields not just for protection but also for offense. You gain the following benefits while you are wielding a shield:

. If you take the Attack action on your turn, you can use a free action to try to shove a creature within 5 feet of you with your shield.

. If you aren't incapacitated, you can add your shield's AC bonus to any Reflex saving throw you make against a spell or other harmful effect that targets only you.

. If you are subjected to an effect that allows you to make a Reflex saving throw to take only half damage, you can use your reaction to take no damage if you succeed on the saving throw, interposing your shield between yourself and the source of the effect.

Skilled

You gain proficiency in any combination of three skills or tools of your choice.

Skulker

Prerequisite: Dexterity 13 or higher

You are expert at slinking through shadows. You gain the following benefits:

. You can try to hide when you are lightly obscured from the creature from which you are hiding.

. When you are hidden from a creature and miss it with a ranged weapon attack, making the attack doesn't reveal your position.

. Dim light doesn't impose disadvantage on your Wisdom (Perception) checks relying on sight.

Spell Sniper

Prerequisite: The ability to cast at least one spell

. When you cast a spell that requires you to make an attack roll, the spell's range is doubled.

. Your ranged spell attacks ignore half cover and three-quarters cover.

Tavern Brawler

Accustomed to rough-and-tumble fighting using whatever weapons happen to be at hand, you gain the following benefits:

. Increase your Strength or Constitution score by 1, to a maximum of 30.

. You are proficient with improvised weapons

. Your unarmed strike uses a d4 for damage.

. When you hit a creature with an unarmed strike or an improvised weapon on your turn, you can use a free action to attempt to grapple the target.

Tough

Your hit point maximum increases by an amount equal to twice your level when you gain this feat. Whenever you gain a level thereafter your hit point maximum increases by an additional 2 hit points.

Unstoppable Spell

Prerequisite: The ability to cast at least one spell

. You have advantage on Fortitude saving throws that you make to maintain your concentration on a spell when you take damage.

. You can perform the somatic components of spells even when you have weapons or a shield in one or both hands.

. When a hostile creature's movement provokes an opportunity attack from you, you can use your reaction to cast a spell at the creature, rather than making an opportunity attack. The spell must have a casting time of 1 action and must target only that creature.

Weapon Master

You have practiced extensively with a variety of weapons, gaining the following benefits:

. Increase your Strength or Dexterity score by 1, to a maximum of 30.

. You gain proficiency with one weapon class or 2 Exotic weapons of your choice

PLAYING THE GAME

NPC Interactions

An NPC is defined as having one of five attitudes towards each character that guides their general actions. These attitudes are, sequentially: Hostile, Aggressive, Neutral, Helpful, and Friendly. An NPC's attitude can be influenced by various Charisma-based interactions, certain questlines, specific spells, etc.

Combat

Shields can be used in any empty hand regardless of what is in the other hand.

If a weapon has multiple damage types the player must pick one if relevant.

If you are 5ft out of range of the opponent and the space immediately in front of you is unoccupied you can attack with a lunge to attack the opponent but when this happens you do not add your bonuses to your attack and damage rolls.

A character's AC is their armor AC + DEX modifier no matter the armor.

Like usual, combat starts with an initiative roll that uses Reflex. On every turn each character has their movement and 2 actions one of which is lost if their poise is broken. An action can either be used for an attack, a spell, or other actions like dashing or grappling. Characters also have 1 reaction to use outside of their turn; they lose their reaction if their poise is broken.

When combat begins all characters start with their max poise and at the beginning of their turn regain poise equal to 1d4 + their Recovery modifier up to their max poise. When the character's poise reaches 0 or below their poise is broken. When you roll for damage you calculate poise damage by halving the max raw damage roll and rolling the closest die size rounding up (if not exact, minus two from the result; if less than 2, add no additional poise damage) and then add your Power modifier. Unless the . If a character starts their turn with 0 or less poise, instead of rolling to regain poise, their poise is set to max.

When you deal poise damage that reduces your opponent's poise to -4 or less, the attacker can declare whether they are making a shoving attack which requires the opponent to make a Fortitude save or a tripping attack which requires a Reflex save both with a DC of the attacker's raw attack roll + their power modifier - half the opponent's AC. Failing the save knocks them prone.

When you break your opponent's poise you also have the option to take an extra action to reposition yourself and your opponent. You first move your opponent to an adjacent square and then move yourself 5ft to stay adjacent to them or stay still. When you do this both you and your opponent make a saving throw of either Fortitude or Reflex(Player's choice) with a DC of the movers Max Poise - the individual's Current Poise. If both succeed, nothing happens. If just the opponent fails, the movement happens. If just the attacker fails, their poise is broken. If both fail, both characters are knocked prone.

When dual wielding you can make a double strike as an action. When making a double strike you make one attack roll but only apply the attack modifier of one, then roll the damage die for both weapons but only apply the damage modifier for one of them.

Death Saves

For Death saves the player uses their choice between Fortitude and Will.

Spell Casting

There are three different spell casting modifiers for each class, the Endurance Spellcasting Modifier (ESM), the Power Spellcasting Modifier (PSM), and the Recovery Spellcasting Modifier (RSM).

Characters capable of casting spells have a pool of Spell Points(SP) depending on their level and class + ESM score and most spells can be cast with only one SP and can be cast with an increasing amount of points to a cap that is determined by level and class + PSM and is never less than 1.

Increasing the amount of points spent increases the DC of spells and for damaging spells increases the damage or other effects depending on the spell. Your SP is filled to max after a long rest and after a short rest you regain an amount of SP equal to a roll of their spell die + RSM and is 0 if the final number is negative.

The total number of spells a spellcaster can have prepared at once is 3 + PSM. The prepared spells can be changed during Short or Long Rests.

Areas of effect: Cone(Point of Origin Range, Length, Width), Cube(Point of Origin Range, Length), Cylinder(Point of Origin Range, Diameter, Hight), Sphere(Point of Origin Range, Radius)

MAGICAL ITEMS

This section refers to objects with magical properties that can be used to achieve a variety of effects. There are three main ways in which this can happen. One is naturally, The same inherently magical areas that allow for druids also imbue the material grown in that area with inherent magical properties. Another is enchantment, where a person either takes ambient or their own soul energy and infuses it into an object. The third and final way is through rune smithing where you inscribe a divine rune onto an item to imbue it with special properties. Only one of any method can be applied to a single item at a time but multiple methods can be applied to the same item simultaneously.

Detecting magic properties in items works by a caster using their own soul to probe and "feel" other soul energy or lack thereof. In the case of enchanted items, this means that someone detecting magic can feel how big the slot is and how much more soul energy can be put into it. If a caster is familiar with the kind of enchantment or is a wizard trained and able to perform tests on the item they might be able to even know the effects the enchant has on the item. Detecting any enchantment takes 2 actions and discerning the exact nature of an enchantment takes 1 minute.

Rune Smithing

As divine classes, such as clerics and hexblades, devote more and more of their life to the service of their deity, their deity might choose to grant them the knowledge of divine runes. These runes can be inscribed onto objects to achieve different effects, though these effects only persist as long as the item is wielded by someone favored by the deity whose rune is inscribed. To inscribe a rune into an item you need a set of smithing tools and 1 hour to fully inscribe the rune. Only one rune can be inscribed on an object.

Rune Name	Rune Effect
The Badger
Rune of Law	The wielder can take an action to present the item with this rune to make all NPCs within 60ft of the wielder answer the next question they're asked honestly.
Sign of the Unforged	Metal armor struck with an item with this rune melt slightly lowering their AC by 1 any one not wearing metal armor struck with an item with this rune take 1d12 fire damage

The Bear
Mark of the Defender	While equipped with an item with this rune the wielder gains resistance to physical damage
Rune of the Undergrowth	Plunging an item with this rune into ground causes vines to erupt from the ground and make the terrain difficult to traverse for all but the wielder, this takes 2 Actions. The wielder may choose the specific spaces affected as long as they are within 60ft and the total number of spaces does not exceed 50. When a hostile creature ends its turn in an affected space it must succeed a Fortitude saving throw(DC: 11+Proficiency bonus) or be restrained. A creature restrained by the vines can use an action to make a Strength check against the DC. On a success, it frees itself.
The Crab
Sign of Chaos	While equipped with an item with this rune, whenever a creature with in 60ft makes an attack roll or saving throw if the creature is allied with the wielder, their rolls are increased by 1d10 and decreased by 1d6 and if they are hostile towards the wielder, their rolls are increased by 1d6 and decreased by 1d10, otherwise, their rolls are increased by 1d6 and decreased by 1d6.
Rune of Wet	While equipped with an item with this rune, the wielder can breathe underwater uninhibited and have a swimming speed equal to their walking speed.
The Eagle
Symbol of the Righteous	When attacking an enemy the wielder deems evil with an item with this rune, a 19 counts as a critical hit and critical hits deal an extra 2d10

	lightning damage
Rune of Restoration	While fully in direct sunlight the wielder heals 1d4 health every round on their turn.
The Hare
Rune of Peace	The wielder can take 2 Actions to present the item with this rune to make all hostile NPCs within 30ft of the wielder neutral and all neutral NPCs friendly.
Sign of Whiteout	The wielder can take 2 Actions to present the item with this rune to create a whirling blizzard around them in a 30ft radius. This blizzard can be dismissed with an action. Any hostile creature within this radius treats the area as heavily obscured and must succeed a Fortitude(DC: 14+Proficiency bonus) on their turn or take 2d4 cold damage.
The Owl
Symbol of Neutrality	The wielder can take 2 Actions to present the item with this rune to make all NPCs within 90ft of the wielder neutral.
Rune of Rain	The wielder can take an action to use the item with this rune to create a heavy rainstorm around them in a 90ft radius. This rain can be dismissed with an action. Any non-allied or non-friendly creature within this radius treats the area as lightly obscured and makes attacks with disadvantage.
The Raven
Mark of the Avenger	While equipped with an item with this rune, when the wielder or an allied creature that they can see is hit by an attack or spell that successfully causes damage, if your next attack is against the creature that hurt them, then if it hits it automatically counts as a critical.

Rune of the Unseen	While equipped with this rune, whenever the wielder makes a successful stealth check that renders them unseen by any creature, they can teleport to any unoccupied space they can see that is not being directly observed by another creature.

Item Enchantment

Wizards are known for their study of the physical world to improve their magical abilities. These studies have allowed them to gain the ability to infuse items with magical properties of their own design. Something to be aware of with enchanted items is that they all have a charge to them. For example, an enchanted sword that creates an arc of flames with every swing uses up a charge with each swing. After all the charges are used up the sword will no longer produce flames, but the sword could be recharged by someone with a powerful enough soul feeding their energy into the weapon. This has caused there to be an economic demand for magic recharge businesses. In almost every major town/city you can find at least one spellcaster offering their services to recharge enchanted items for a cost.

Creating an enchantment and imbuing an item takes approximately 1 hour and recharging a single charge takes an action and is subject to the same SP cap and cost as spells. A single item can only have one enchantment on it at a time and removing an enchantment completely takes 1 hour. Enchantments without investment costs 1 SP per charge and the maximum amount of charges an enchantment can hold is determined by how many multiples of the charge cost you put into the creation of the enchantment. Enchantments must be fully charged when created.

Enchantment name	Enchantment effect	Investments
Element Aspect	Infuse the item with an element of your choice: fire, cold, lightning, thunder, necrotic, acid, force. The item now deals 1d4 of that damage every time it hits, expending 1 charge	a) Damage: next die size up (Max: 12), cost: +1SP; b) Damage: +1 die, +1 Attack bonus, cost: +(die size)SP
Aura of Confusion	Take an action to activate this enchantment, causing it to expend 1 charge per round. Deactivating the enchantment also takes an action. While within 10ft of the enchanted item while it is active, starting the turn after it	a) Damage: next die size up (Max: 12), cost: +1SP; b) Damage: +1 die, cost: +(die size/2)SP; c)+1 DC, cost: +1SP;

	is activated, creatures must succeed a Will saving throw(Base DC: 8) or take 1d4 Psychic damage and become incapacitated.	d)Radius: +10ft, cost: +1SP
Illusory Cloak	Use an action to activate an illusion that makes you--including your clothing, armor, weapons, and other belongings--look different until the enchantment ends or until you use your action to dismiss it. While active, 1 charge is expended every minute. You can seem 1 foot shorter or taller and can appear thin, fat, or in between. You must adopt a form that has the same basic arrangement of limbs. Otherwise, the extent of the illusion is up to you. The changes wrought fail to hold up to physical inspection. To discern that you are disguised, a creature can use its action to inspect your appearance and must succeed on an Investigation check against DC : 8.	DC: +2, cost: +3SP
Magical Aegis	You can use a reaction to spend a charge to temporarily increase your AC by 1 until the start of your next turn.	AC: +2, cost: +3SP

Naturally Enhanced Materials

Druids are unique in that their mode of magically enhancing items works not on the item as a whole but rather on the very materials the item is made of. Druids can infuse a small patch of ground with the same magic of their magical site and material grown in that spot have some magical property that can make things made of that material excel in some metric.

Infusing the land with your magic costs 30SP and all items made from the enhanced material are far more durable than their non-enhanced counterparts. Weapons made from the enhanced material gain +1 to its attack and damage bonus and armor made from the enhanced material gain +1 to its AC. These bonuses increase by 1 for every instance of SP invested. Unlike all other magical items, for their Auxiliary effects to be used they need to be attuned to the soul of the user. A single item can be attuned to an unlimited amount of creatures but its effects can only be applied to the creature actively wielding it and attunement can be done over the course of a Short Rest. It is important to note, if a creature is attuned to more than one enhanced item, effects of the same type do not stack but multiple effects can be active at once.

Magical Site	Description	Auxiliary Effect
Cave	Though the depths of caverns may lay out of sight of the sun, the stones tell no lies and expose all who may hide in wait.	As long as the creature wielding the enhanced item is touching the ground they are aware of all creatures within 60ft that are also touching the ground.
Coast	Living in the water requires a different set of skills from living on land; these items can impart some of these skills to give land dwellers a chance in the water.	Those attuned with and wielding this item can breathe underwater effortlessly and even walk on the surface of water.
Forest	The branches of the woodlands form a community no less harmonious than any among the sentient species, and those who live among them may partake of their aid.	Those wielding and attuned with this enhanced item can enter a tree large enough to encase them and exit another tree of the same kind within 50ft at the cost of 5ft of movement.
Glacier	Things that grow in cold unforgiving environments need to be able to survive in such inclement weather. These items infuse the user with the resilience needed to survive in these places and punish those who can not.	Resistance to Cold and any creature that comes in contact with the enhanced item that is not attuned with it takes 1d4 cold damage both when it first comes in contact with the item and at the start of each of its turns that it remains in contact with the item.
Mountain	Each stone lends its strength to the mountain, and the mountain gives each stone strength; just this way, those with these items will find that stones never give way underfoot, and that their ascent shall never be impeded.	The creature wielding the enhanced item can climb any stone surface unhindered and have their climbing speed equal their walking speed.
Plains	Just like the wind that so often blows through grasslands, these items grant	The wielder has their speed doubled, an extra action on their turn, and a +5 to the wielder with that same swiftness and tracelessness	Stealth checks

Swamp	Things that grow in the swamp need to be resilient to the toxins that are rampant in such areas. These items infuse the user with the resilience needed to survive in these environments.	Immunity to Disease and Poison
Wasteland	Nothing can truly live in a wasteland, and thus anything infused with the power of a wasteland becomes hostile towards life, destroying it upon contact.	Any creature that comes in contact with the enhanced item that is not attuned with it takes 1d6 necrotic damage both when it first comes in contact with the item and at the start of each of its turns that it remains in contact with the item.

LORE APPENDIX

Part 1: The Divine Beasts

The Divine Beasts are the Deities of this world and something to note about them is that most of the time they are not quite as personal as most deities in other worlds. The seven Divine Beasts, while intelligent, having wills of their own, and a semblance of individual personalities, do not often interact with mortals on as personal a level as other deities might. It might be better to think of the Divine Beasts, in most situations, less as people in the traditional sense and more as nature spirits that embody different aspects of the natural world.

Name	Form	Domain	Connotations
The Badger	European Badger	Mountains and Caves	Mining, forging, lava, and order
The Bear	Brown Bear	Forests and Vegetation	Agriculture, bounty, shelter, and protection
The Crab	Caribbean Crab	Oceans and Lakes	Oceanic Storms(hurricanes and such), tsunamis, sea life, fishing, and capriciousness
The Eagle	Gold-Colored Eagle	The day Sky and the Sun	Sunlight, wind and lightning, fire, and righteousness
The Hare	Snow Hare	Tundras and Glaciers	Cold, Ice, winter, snow, blizzards, and community
The Owl	Snowy Owl	The night Sky and the Moon	Moonlight, wind and rain, water, calmness, and neutrality
The Raven	Australian Raven	Death and The Underworld	Fire, portals & gateways, and revenge

Part 2: Magic

Magic is the influence of soul energy. To cast a spell is to exert one's soul energy on the world, on another, or such similar. Doing this is comparable to using a muscle: one's soul only has so much strength to use at once, and can only do so much so quickly before growing tired, but practice — and perhaps stimulation — can improve its performance. Different sources of magic alter one's soul in different ways, and different forms of soul energy can be used to produce different effects.

The first source of magic is the inherent. This is using only the strength of one's own soul, however trained, to invoke magic. Such is the way of sorcerers, wizards, and bards, who either through innately powerful souls or intense dedication have grown their soul and honed it as an athlete would their muscles, enabling them to work feats of magic. This gives the spellcaster the inherent flexibility of the mortal soul in what magics they may work, though some kinds of magic will come easier to some and other kinds may not at all.

The second source of magic is the grafted. This is a gift from a powerful patron, such as one of the deities, who stitches a fragment of soul onto one's own soul, a fragment strong enough to work magic. These are very focused in such cases, reliant on the specific soul energy types given in the graft, and thus confine the caster to the magic of their patron, as in the case of warlocks. Clerics are a subtly different case, as they do not work magic as directly as it might seem.

The third source of magic is the accepted. This is the result of certain areas containing naturally heightened soul energy specific to their nature, and if one's soul wills, this power can grow into one's being. As such, this is a more synergistic enhancement than with grafted soul, with the nature of one's own soul and the accepted power influencing each other in turn, unionizing the caster with the nature of the place they have dedicated themself to, as clearly shown in the case of druids and seekers.

No matter the source or nature of one's magical ability, the core principles remain the same. Magic is the result of working the power of a soul, and the more it is trained, the stronger its power can be, and the more it can be used without stretching into exhaustion.

Part 3: The Underworld

The Underworld is ruled by an immortal known as The Harbinger of The Raven who serves the Deity of the underworld, The Raven, and is blessed with magic powers. The Harbinger also has a court of advisors, the head of which is chosen by The Raven. Souls in the underworld slowly fade and eventually wither and die. So every time the head of the court dies, the Harbinger goes to The Raven who shows her who will be the next head of the court. The person is always still living and must be groomed by the Harbinger until their death. To do this the Raven gives the Harbinger a new name and form before sending her to the living realm.

The Harbinger was created by the Raven to make the experience of living in the underworld more familiar and comfortable to the newly dead. The Raven also made the Harbinger human to help her be more familiar to her subjects and blend in better in the living world. But being infused with such a dense amount of divine power caused the harbinger to mutate into what could be called a "Super-Tiefling" which is what warlock of hers turn into while in their patron form. So when the Harbinger goes to the living world she will use magic to disguise herself as a normal human.

The head of the court is given a shared portion of the Harbinger's magic power. Though it is customary for the Harbinger and her present or future head of court to share a bedroom, a romantic and/or sexual relationship between the two is not required. The Harbinger often refers to the living as unborn children since it is customary for her to refer to her common subject as her children as her position is seen as motherly and she is sometimes referred to as the Mother of the Dead.

The Raven is the deity of death and the underworld with connotations of fire, portals/gateways, and revenge. There is no Heaven, only the underworld, but some popular living religions believe in the dichotomy of Heaven and Hell. They believe The Raven is equivalent to the devil, but in reality everyone, good or bad, is sent to the underworld and the Harbinger sees the afterlife as one's true life. Thus making anyone not yet dead, in her eyes, yet to be truly born.

Map of Tlaotci

Politics

There are many regions in the Realm of the Divine Beasts, but for now let's just focus on the region furthest from the Seam. Called Tlaotci(tl-owt-see) by the locals, to many outside of the region it is known as the Land of the City-states. A name that is as accurate as it is perhaps lazy. The status quo for Tlaotci is in how all the political and economic power of the region is largely concentrated in 3 independent city-states. In order of descending population, they are Devif Groten, Staden Avguld, and Excelsis.

Devif Groten is comprised of what used to be 5 separate villages that joined together for economic benefit and eventually grew so close that they became known as a single city. Don't be fooled though, there is still some lingering factionalism within the areas of the five villages. The city is governed by a Democratic Councilship, where each of the five villages votes one member to the council and then they all as a whole vote one person to be head council. It has the highest population of the three major cities, mostly humans but of the three cities has the smallest race majority, and if it weren't for their internal strife and the constant fighting between its village neighbors and them they could grow their influence far beyond their border. The city is known for being openly tolerant of those that come to the city but you will find that not all of the residents are on board with that. Despite this animosity, Devif Groten is one of the best places for merchants because of the diversity of people and markets it offers.

Staden Avguld, a city built into the very mountains where its resources are mined, known for its Great Forges and abundance of gold, if it weren't for the preferred isolationism of the dwarven culture there, it is possible that they could conquer more land and gain more influence. The population is made up of mostly dwarves but with the highest percentage make up of Tieflings of all the major cities.

The best blacksmiths in the land can be found here along with the lowest crime rate due to the strictest law enforcement of the three cities and their iron strong institutions. As the saying goes, "Those who live the law earn the right to craft it;" as such those who best serve the law in their capacity (perhaps as a police officer, or a judge, or such) may qualify to become a member of the council that ordains the laws and governs the city.

Excelsis, the runt of the litter, is the city with the highest average living standard. The area the city is in is home to massive naturally occurring pillars of ice called Ice Spires. The Ice Spires function as homes for most of the elves in the city and they are all interconnected with one another with bridges at their highest room, encouraging and fostering a community of shared goods and open trade. The elves of the city before being confronted with humans and dwarves of the outside mostly bartered for goods, but once they converted and trade opened up the elves used their newfound resources to better their community.

As some elves returned and spoke of the widespread poverty of the other cities, this created a sense of superiority over their peers and led to the stereotype of the "snooty elf" in the rest of the region. The elves of Excelsis have tried on multiple occasions to use their new resources to expand their territory, but this has mostly led to failure due to lack of experience in large scale warfare.

Population wise, the city is mostly elves with the lowest diversity of the three (Cuz who wants to live in an Ice Spikes biome? Like, seriously? (...I do.)) As for the government, rather than having a formal government, society is led by a Grand Primal Priest at the head of a cult of shamans, who devote themselves in a magical frozen glade considered sacred to the Hare, patron deity of Excelsis, and the shamans serve as advisors for the city and its citizens.

Powered by a magical frozen glade and devotion to the Hare. As the primary power in one of the major city-states, work to guide the people of their city as good members of the community. While not actively evangelical, are eager to share their faith in the Hare's kindness and spread the following. “Place the education and safety of Excelsis over near all else”, save perhaps for the keeping of the site that provides them power and they believe sacred to the Hare.

Religion

The dominant religion in Tlaotci is the Cult of the Heavenly Eagle. The Cult of the Heavenly Eagle is a well-organized set of institutions, led by the Holy Preachers who oversee general religious functions, such as running churches. Closely connected are the Divine Tutors, ordained teachers for the clerics and paladins that make up the Holy Preachers and the final branch, the Heavenly Hunters. The Cult of the Heavenly Eagle professes the existence of both Heaven and Hell, and consign the Raven, her followers, and anyone else associated with them as profane, hellish, and deserving of death. This is the task of the Heavenly Hunters. The ultimate authority in the Cult of the Heavenly Eagle is the Messenger of the Heavenly Eagle, a warlock chosen by the deity, presently the half-elven High Priestess Aureum Sacerdos.

Part 5: Mini Monster Manual

Oasis Dragon

Approx. Adulthood	Approx. Max. Age	Physical Characteristics	Habitat	Other Notes
16	70	A large four legged lizard, about 16 feet from head to tail and when standing is 4 feet tall. It has a large head and neck to support its strong jaw muscles. Their back and top of their head have an almost bark-like texture to it.	The Oasis Dragon can often be found in desert springs and rivers, stalking the waters edge for any animal or person that comes to take a drink. Often killing their victims in one or two bites before dragging them under the surface to be eaten.

Spitting Jungle Wyvern

Approx. Adulthood	Approx. Max. Age	Physical Characteristics	Habitat	Other Notes
6	30	A two legged two winged lizard with a 3 foot wingspan and 3 and half feet from head to tail with a long neck it uses to look from behind the trees it hangs on.	The Spitting Jungle Wyvern unsurprisingly lives in jungles, though they have been known to fly into nearby swamps when prey is scarce.	They often attack swarms of insects but are also known to scavenge the kills of other creatures by spitting venom at the predator that causes a strong burning sensation. Beware! Getting this venom in your eyes can easily cause blindness and ingesting it can be lethal.

Mud Wyrm

Approx. Adulthood	Approx. Max. Age	Physical Characteristics	Habitat	Other Notes
3	20	A brown tube of death, growing up to 4 feet long and about 3 inches in diameter. Flesh is covered in a defensive carapace, which is extra strong around the head and mouth. The mouth is a double jawed cone, used as a spear to thrust into prey flesh before injecting a powerful venom. Each jaw is lined with small, sharp teeth to tear bites off of downed prey. Normal movement is fairly slow, but when coiled in wait can spring out with massive bursts of speed.	Mud Wyrms make their home in shallow, muddy riverbeds, burrowing to conceal themselves until prey wanders by.	Generally target large prey, such as bears, that can be swiftly felled by poison and then serve as a meal for several days. Adept at burrowing and swimming.

Elder Archdragon

Approx. Adulthood	Approx. Max. Age	Physical Characteristics	Habitat	Other Notes
200	1000	An archdragon's size is dependent on their age since they never stop growing even after adulthood. At birth they're the size of a large dog, at "adulthood" they're usually the size of 4 elephants, and by the end of their life they can grow to the size of a football field. Four legs, two sets of wings, claws, and razor sharp teeth. Scales can be any color of the rainbow.	The chasms and caves in the world's seam.	AVOID AT ALL COSTS
